WASHINGTON — The easury department today pposed to congress that tax luctions from pay checks urt not later than July 1, at the whole tax structure placed on a "pay-as-you-go" is, but flatly opposed "forgiv-" a year's taxes as proposed by ardsley Rumi, New York econo-t.

The treasury's suggestions were de by Randolph Paul, general nsel, to the house ways and ans committee as it opened rings on taxation policy.

Collection at the source should tainly not begin later than July f this year," Paul declared.

le proposed that approximately first 19 per cent of the tax ility be deducted from pay-cks, with "allowances" for ular tax exemptions to ease burden.

llowances suggested by Paul e $11 a week for single per-s, $26 for a married couple and additional for each dependent. These amounts," he said, "are le somewhat larger than the rated annual exemption in or-to incorporate an allowance average deductions . . . from gross tax payment."

Thus if a single man's taxes ounted to $15 a week the ac-l deduction from his pay-ck would be that sum less , or $4. Paul flatly opposed pping a year's taxes as pro-ed by Rumi.

"ery great increases in govern-t revenue," he asserted, "are g to be required in the coming s.

Bricker Dips Into Surplus For Budget

Would Use $44,000,000 In Meeting Biggest Ohio Appropriation.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio legislature went to work today on a record-breaking budget of $366,028,921 for 1943-44, estimated to leave the state a $17,000,000 surplus at the end of the biennium.

In submitting the budget last night Gov. John W. Bricker estimate the state's general fund revenues would decline $64,015,263 during the two years. Nevertheless, he recommended that the legislature appropriate $21,387,225 more than the state spent from the fund in 1941-42.

To make this possible he dumped into the fund all of his current $45,572,000 surplus except for $340,000. The $340,000 is the bookkeeping surplus estimated for the end of 1944.

The legislature may appropriate what it wishes within the law, but that doesn't mean all the money will be spent, an administration financial expert said in explaining the prospective $17,000,000 surplus.

The governor asked for appropriations totaling $19,111,000 for building improvements and repairs, primarily for welfare institutions, but the financial expert pointed out it was extremely doubtful that more than $2,000,000 of the building fund could be spent because of a shortage of building materials and the government restrictions on them.

Thus, the administration in one scene is "freezing" nearly $17,000,000 for building after the war.

The governor suggested no tax increases or reductions apart from abolition of the sales tax on food and prescription medicines.

The proposed actual increases in appropriations recommended for the biennium include $10,000,000 for old age pensions, $13,071,715 for a state welfare and educational building program, and $5,635,000 for increasing salaries of state employes receiving less than $2,000 a year.

The budget for the first time in many years contemplates a transfer of $4,000,000 from the general revenue fund to the highway program, which here-

QUIZ FISHER

Senators Try to Find Cause of Ohio's Liquor Shortage.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio senate liquor control committee met last night in an effort to find an explanation to the state's liquor shortage but emerged without turning up any new facts.

The committee met behind closed doors, a practice contrary to senate policy, and summoned Liquor Director Don Fisher for questioning. Vice-Chairman Stanley G. McKie, (R., Hamilton) said after the meeting that Director Fisher gave no more enlightenment than already had been made public.

The director, he added, said Ohio was receiving more liquor than it received last year but could not meet the demand increased by buying power.

TIME MEASURE'S FUTURE CLOUDY

Senate Gets Bill Today But Leader Doubts If Enough Votes Can Be Mustered.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The bill to turn back the clocks an hour came up for a vote in the Ohio senate today, but its future was uncertain.

Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore said he doubted whether the required 22 votes could be mustered to pass it as an emergency measure. Proponents contended they had adequate votes.

The emergency tag is needed to make the bill effective immediately, otherwise its start of operation would be delayed 90 days.

Furthermore, Senator Frank E. Bubna (R-Cuyahoga), who consulted an astronomer, questioned whether the phrasing would achieve the desired effect of backing up the clocks an hour. The bill would put Ohio on "the mean astronomical time of the 75th degree of longitude west of Greenwich."

Whittemore indicated he would seek postponement of the vote

Mayor And 2 Councilmen In Long Session Over Pay Hikes

The proposal of council's salary committee for pay increases for city employes brought about a long night session of conferences in Mayor W. J. Locke's office last night, between the mayor and the two Republican members of the committee, Paul Bush and Russell D. Porch.

Bush left the mayor's office around 11 p. m., and had nothing to say about what he and the mayor and Porch had talked about. Porch remained after Bush had left.

The report, placed in the council hopper yesterday afternoon, was drawn up by a three-man committee of which Councilman Fred Miller, sr., was the third, and lone Democratic member.

Miller said he and Bush and Porch had been in complete agreement on the proposal as it was drafted.

Today, however, after conferring with the mayor last night, Porch said he would "have to talk to several other persons before making up my mind."

He would not comment further, nor did he identify the persons to whom he planned to talk.

Reports around city hall while the committee was working on the pay increase measure were to the effect that Mayor Locke feared that Chairman Miller would try to raise the pay of Democrats

ACTS TONIGHT

Council To Get Request To 'Brand' City Autos.

All motorized equipment belonging to the city would be "branded" under a resolution drafted by George C. Kyle, at-large member and which he said will come before council tonight.

Municipal ownership identification will be established by two-inch lettering reading "CITY OF MANSFIELD,——— Department."

Kyle's resolution is the outgrowth of a situation arising two weeks ago when the service department car was not available for making an emergency inspection of a broken water line. Mayor W. J. Locke was absent from the city that day. He later said he used the city car on "official business" because the tires of his own auto are badly worn.

150 File Income Tax Returns On First 'Busy' Day

Business picked up at the internal revenue office noticeably yesterday when at least 150 persons filed income tax returns for 1943.

Although tax payers have been slow getting started since the office opened for returns, Jan. 1, Deputy Collector Charles S. Mosey said today that he expected the office to be busy from now to March 15, deadline for filing.

Among the persons to file returns recently was a Mansfield service man, stationed along the east coast.

His payment, officials indicated, ran into a fairly sizable figure, but the Mansfielder stated that didn't bother him for he had saved for the emergency. He also added, "I'm willing to fight and pay my obligations too."

Officials will be on hand between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. at the postoffice every day, including Saturday, until March 15.

Poor Old Joe Groundhog, The War's Got Him Stymied, Too

Richland county had the stage all set today to await the appearance of a timely actor—Joe Groundhog—on his big day of the year, but the war had him stymied.

Joe rose early and dressed carefully as is his annual custom. At the threshold of his modest pension he halted and turned back.

"I'm just wondering what Byron Price, (director of censorship) would say," he remarked.

"About what?" asked the missus.

"About me going out and throwing my shadow around—maybe giving weather information to the enemy and that sort of thing."

So they decided that Joe himself would restrict his comments to the press to light banter and chit-chat concealing the real reason for his promenade.

"Anything you write," Joe told the fourth estate, "may be picked up by the Fifth column and transmitted to the third reich so you'd better be careful in the first and second places."

The following colloquoy then took place:

Q. Will we have six more weeks of winter?

A. Wouldn't Hitler like to know.

Q. Does Hitler believe in groundhogs?

A. He's got Goebbels hasn't he?

SET TO BAN DEPENDENCY DEFERMENTS

WMC Lists 70 Occupations as Non-Deferable After April 1 In New Regulation.

SEEKS WAR-JOB SHIFT

M'Nutt Indicates New Move Means End of Deferring For Dependency Alone.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt told the house military affairs committee today that "by the end of this year 10 out of every 14 of the able-bodied men between 18 and 38 will be in the armed services."

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The war manpower commission today moved toward complete abolition of dependency as grounds for deferment from military service.

The death knell of the familiar 3-A classification was sounded as the WMC instructed local draft boards to consider some 70 activities and occupations as "non-deferrable" after April 1, regardless of dependents.

Unless the holders of such jobs—bartenders, bootblacks, bus boys, chauffeurs, tailors and night club employes—get into essential war work within 60 days, they face reclassification into 1-A and become liable for the draft.

Paul V. McNutt, manpower chief, made it abundantly clear that "this is only the beginning."

"Does this mean that henceforth dependency will not be enough for deferment?" he was asked.

"It is a rather clear indication to all who can read," he said.

'Mind you, this is not the final list. It is not permanent. It will be enlarged as the demands for manpower become greater."

"My advice to employers in the non-essential fields is to hire women, older people and those physically handicapped."

The drastic action came as a prelude to the government's efforts to recruit 6,400,000 persons

HITLER DEAD?

Newspaper Draws Conclusion From Anniversary Events.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — The New York Daily News said today in its leading editorial that "it is just possible that Hitler is dead."

The newspaper noted that Hitler had not made a speech on the important occasion of the 10th anniversary of his rise to power and that only a proclamation had been read in the fuehrer's name by Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels.

"From all this," the News said, "we think it is conceivable that Hitler is dead, either from natural causes, or by his own hand, or at the hands of some carmarilla of German generals convinced that his usefulness to Germany is ended."

Pledges Inonu Aid, Prepares For Big Attack

Allies Drive For Clean-up In Tunisia As Yanks Push Back Nazis Near East Coast; Russians Strike To Within 40 Mile Of Rostov.

(By Associated Press)

Prime Minister Churchill's week-end trip to Turkey with a message from President Roosevelt, and probably clear guarantees of Allied aid, appeared today to have been a diplomatic master stroke to safeguard the eastern Mediterranean flank for the coming Allied attack into Europe.

The quickening pace of the campaign for a clean-up in Tunisia, and the relentless drive which carried the Russians to less than 40 miles from Rostov and virtually doomed the weakening German grip in the Caucasus moved the Allied armies steadily into position for that offensive.

American, British and French forces were striking out in three sectors of the western Tunisian front while the Axis battled desperately to keep its coastal stand from being pinched in two.

An American raiding force drove the Germans from the village of Sened, in a thrust close to Maknassy, 53 miles from the Tunisian east coast, repulsed a counter-attack and withdrew on orders after completing their mission.

The German high command announced that the Russians had broke into the last bastion of the Nazi suicide army at Stalingrad, and the Berlin radio said two more generals had been killed in the debacle.

The Russians announced in their noon communique that "German resistance has been broken" in the sector where their forces broke through Mechetinskaya to within 40 miles of Rostov along the railroad from Saisk, and they said "the Germans are retreating under the blows of our troops."

Churchill, who went from the Casablanca conference to Turkey by plane, conferred Saturday and Sunday with President Ismet Inonu amid a group of British and Turkish military leaders whose presence showed clearly that the talks dealt with more than diplomacy.

"Agreement was reached," it was announced, "on the manner in which Great Britain and the United States would be able to help Turkey materially to consolidate her own general defensive security. . . ."

It was disclosed at Ankara that Churchill brought Inonu a message from Roosevelt, and that the Turkish president had replied by cable.

The British announcement of the meeting said "the prime minister, having so recently been in conference with the president of the United States, could speak with full knowledge of the views

REPORT JAP WARSHIPS HIT

Chinese Say Battlewagons Damaged, Several Cargo Vessels Sunk.

(By Associated Press)

The Chungking official Central Daily News said in a dispatch today two Japanese battleships were damaged and several rice-laden ships sunk Jan. 11 in an attack by Allied submarines about 4 miles off Shanghai.

The two damaged warships were forced to return to Shanghai for repairs, it was reported.

At the same time the Tokyo radio claimed two battleships and three cruisers reported sunk by the Japanese last Friday and Saturday south of the Solomon islands were all American vessels as were another battleship and one cruiser reported damaged and three planes said to have been shot down.

(The Japanese claims have not been confirmed by any Allied source.)

Japanese occupation forces in Burma are resisting strongly in the vicinity of Donbaik on the Mayu peninsula leading down toward Akyab, a British communique said today, and the principal fighting apparently is centered in that area.

Two Japanese-occupied villages on the Mayu peninsula were attacked by RAF bombers yesterday and during the night the bombers went farther south to attack enemy positions on Akyab island, where fires were started.

Washington reported U. S. troops are steadily mopping up Japanese forces on Guadalcanal and have killed more enemy soldiers and captured 22.

Walker Wants Half Cent Raise In Mail Rates.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — It may cost 3½ cents to mail a letter after June 30 if congress adopts a suggestion by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker.

Walker told the house appropriations committee during hearings on the postoffice appropriations bill that a half cent increase in the three classifications of first class mail would about balance the department's budget for fiscal 1944.

The combined three-cent postage rate provision expires June 30.

FDR Calls Casablanca Talks A 'Win The War' Conference

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt said today his Casablanca conference with Winston Churchill was one to win the war and to fulfill the promise he made in his annual message to congress that the United Nations would strike hard in Europe.

The chief executive, talking at a press conference, spoke principally in generalities of the meeting and supplied most of the new details in the nature of anecdotes.

But he did emphasize the words of his January message in which he promised new blows at the Axis in Europe and said that his parley with Churchill was in fulfillment of that declaration.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he thought the highlight of the North African meeting was the formal reemphasis placed on a belief that there should be no negotiated armistice, only an unconditional surrender by the Axis.

There were two highlights, Mr. Roosevelt said, of his stop on the way home to talk with President Vargas of Brazil.

One, he explained, is the greatly increased effort Brazil is making to combat submarines. The second, he said, is an agreement that the peace to come must eliminate any future threat from the African coast to the portion of

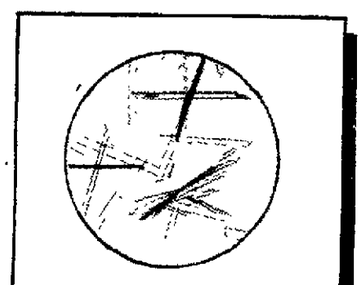
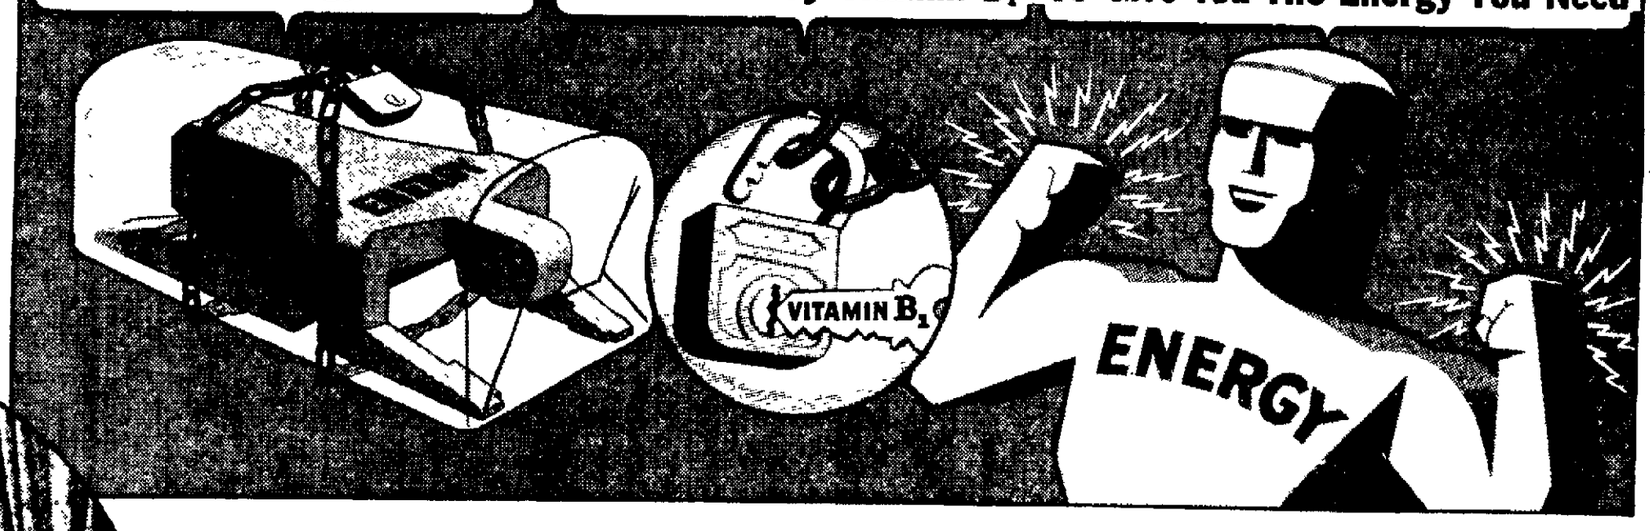
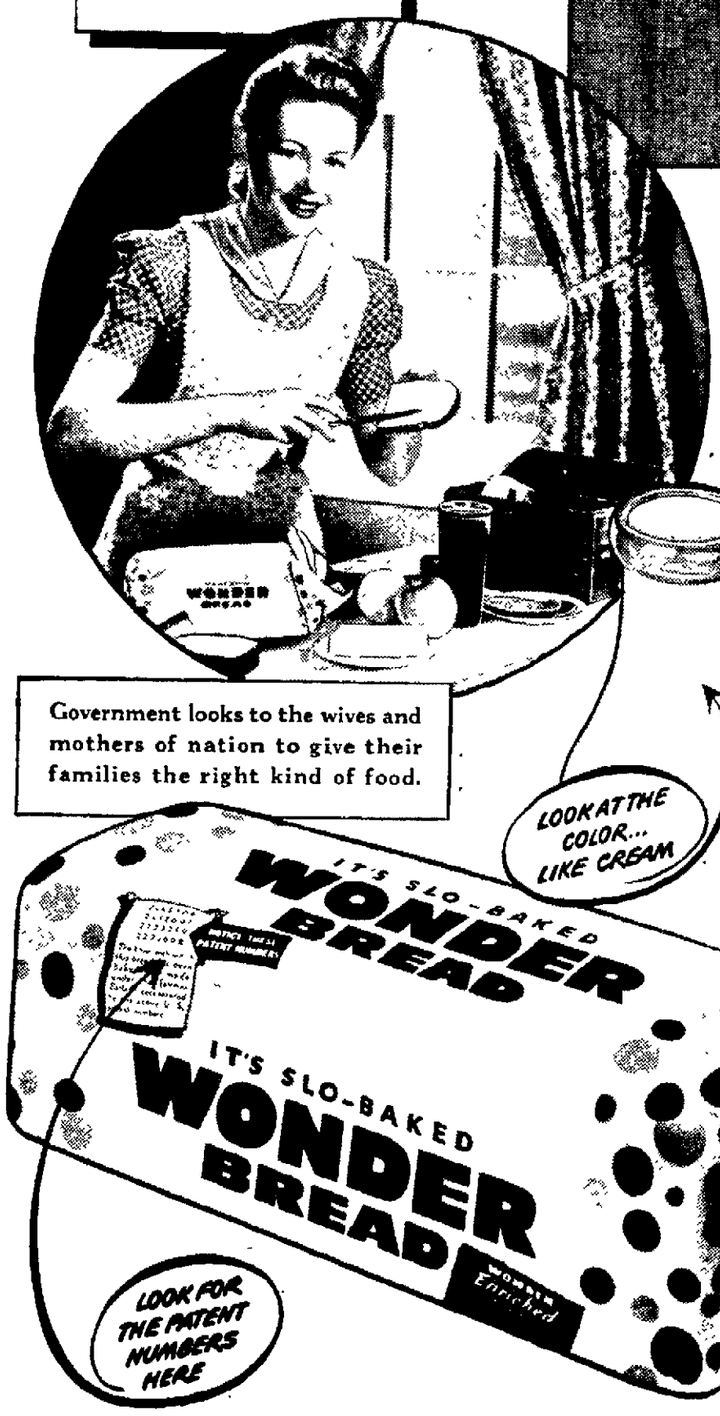
SCIENCE DISCOVERS VITAMIN B_1 NECESSARY TO HELP TRANSFORM BREAD INTO ENERGY



Photomicrograph of Vitamin B_1 Magnified 1000 Times. In One Year An Adult Needs 121,545 Units Of Vitamin B_1

The Hidden Energy In Bread Is Unlocked By Vitamin B_1 To Give You The Energy You Need





Government looks to the wives and mothers of nation to give their families the right kind of food.

Yet Of The Millions Who Rely Upon Bread For Up To 35% Of Their Daily Energy—3 Out Of 4 Fail To Get A Good Diet, U. S. Officials Say. Thus, Can Fail To Get Enough Vitamin B_1

New Wonder Bread Thrills Thousands Everywhere Because:
(1) Contains Vitamin B_1 (2) Slo-Baked For Lasting Freshness
(3) Tastes Better (4) Proves Easier-To-Slice

WHAT everybody knows is that millions rely upon bread for up to 35% of their daily energy.

What you may not know is that you must have Vitamin B_1 to help transform the bread you eat into energy you need.

Science proves conclusively that it takes Vitamin B_1 to unlock bread's energy.

Now—according to U. S. Government Health Officials, 3 out of 4 people fail to get a good diet; thus, can fail to get enough Vitamin B_1 naturally.

This does not mean you lack Vitamin B_1 so badly the bread you eat does you no good. It does mean your body cannot properly transform bread into energy unless you get sufficient Vitamin B_1.

A New Kind Of Bread

Wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B_1 into wheat. But—in making bread whiter—man took it out. Then Theodore Earle patented a way to retain more natural vitamins and minerals in flour. And mass production by American industry made possible further additions of the Vitamin B_1 needed in the bread.

A bread now better for flavor and better for health than before.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it; fresh when you eat it.

Because it is slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer it stays fresh on the table and in your family's lunch box.

In addition, Wonder's slo-baking method gives you bread with a richer flavor now.

And—a firmer, tenderer texture. You'll find it easy to slice—and it leaves no crumbs.

Get new Wonder Bread at your grocer's today. You'll be glad you did!

Only Wonder Bread is made this way from Earle Patented Process Flour—U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696.

Buckeye Hobby club members heard an interesting talk on "Antiques" at their meeting Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. clubrooms. Mrs. H. L. Princehorn guest speaker of the evening, traced the history of some of the early glassmakers and furniture manufacturers, and also exhibited some choice pieces from her collection of antiques.

Mrs. Guy Shawk, president, conducted the business meeting, at which time plans were made for a covered-dish dinner on March 1, at 6:30 p. m., for members, their families and friends. This will be at the Y. M. C. A. clubrooms, it was announced, and will be in charge of Mrs. L. H. Funk and Mrs. Pearl Faught.

Contests engaged the group during the social hour, with prizes being won by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albers, and Mrs. Marion Gerrell. Five new members were welcomed into the organization. They were Mrs. W. T. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hecht and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Owens.

WILLING WORKERS.

The Willing Workers of the Little Washington church will meet with Mrs. William Freeman in Little Washington, Feb. 11. There will be a covered-dish dinner, birthday party and the regular business meeting.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, February 3.

ADVERSE AND critical conditions seem to continue resulting from doubtful and sinister past performances or connection with dubious persons or organizations. Several angles of a surprising and sudden nature may arise and there may be obstacles, delays and frustrations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year calling for the use of their best talents, logic, reason and common sense, in order to make headway against tricky, evil and surprising situations. Snap judgments, lavish unwarranted use of funds and energies may prove a setback.

A child born on this day may have much talent and energy, with versatility and right intentions, but may be swept into sudden and ill-advised associations.

Family, Friends Attend Wedding In Parsonage

Rev. Albert L. Linder, pastor of Park Avenue Baptist church, officiated at the single-ring ceremony when Mrs. Willa Dow, daughter of Mrs. Blanche King, Coleman road, was married to Second Lieut. William Callen, of Camp Davis, N. C., Sunday at 1:30 p. m. in the church parsonage.

The new Mrs. Callen wore a beige street-length dress with brown accessories for her wedding, which was attended by the families and a few close friends. She wore an orchid corsage.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Marquis. Mrs. Marquis wore a light blue crepe dress, with rose accessories, and a corsage of gardenias.

Later a reception was held and dinner served to 15 guests at the Colonial Guest House. The table at which the guests were seated was centered with a large tiered wedding cake and bowls of mixed flowers.

Lieut. and Mrs. Callen have gone to Detroit, where they will spend the week. When Lieut. Callen returns to his camp, Mrs. Callen will reside here temporarily. She is the owner of Mifflin Inn. Prior to his induction into the armed forces Lieut. Callen was employed at the inn.

WILL MEET TONIGHT.

The regular meeting of the Blue Star Mothers club is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. today in the basement of the Legion home, it was announced today.

THREE GUESTS PRESENT.

Three guests, Mrs. Griffith of Shiloh, Mrs. A. R. Bell, a Past Matron of Chetopa, Kan., and Mrs. Edna Berlo, attended the luncheon-meeting of the Past Matrons club, Order of Eastern Star, in the Masonic temple, recently. Patriotic colors were used in the attractive table decorations, which included a large bowl of red roses, and blue and white chrysanthemums. There were 26 present. A playlet was directed by Mrs. Miriam Gross.

LUNCHEON PLANNED.

A 1 o'clock luncheon is planned for Thursday for members of Circle 5, First Presbyterian church, in the church parlors. Hostesses will be Mrs. D. O. Meese, Mrs. A. J. Knight, Mrs. Roy Painter, Mrs. G. H. Rusk, Mrs. Clarence Netting and Mrs. Roy Roller. Following the luncheon, members of Circle 5 and 4 will meet jointly to hear a talk on "Lighting a Home in Wartime," by Miss Isabelle Barry, of Cleveland.

BIBLE CLUB MEETS.

The Business Girls' Bible club held its meeting last evening at the home of Miss Eleanor Johns, 151 Western avenue. Devotions were led by Miss Naomi Hamblin. Miss Lucille Laser discussed the lesson. A contribution was given to the Gideons for Bibles for the boys in service. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Erma Grandstaff, 246 Bowland road.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

BUCYRUS—A family dinner in a local restaurant marked the 85th birthday anniversary of Rev. O. F. Laughbaum, retired United Brethren pastor, Sunday. Present to share in the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Gilbert and son of Bucyrus, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hurd and twin sons of Columbus.

GO TO CONFERENCE

GALION—Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Collison, Miss Beulah Larison and Lincoln Palmer of First Baptist church, left Sunday evening to attend a Bible conference at Moody Institute in Chicago. They plan to be gone for a week.

"WHO'S WHO IN OHIO" TOLD AT STUDY CLUB

Mrs. John Thorne Presents Interesting Topic for Study Club Members; Mrs. William Bloor, Miss Florence Conn, Hostesses.

"WHO'S WHO IN OHIO" was the theme yesterday evening of the Monday Study club, when it met with Mrs. William Bloor on Brae Burn road. Assisting Mrs. Bloor was Mrs. Florence Conn.

Mrs. John Thorne provided the program. Approximately 1,436 contemporary Ohioans are listed in "Who's Who," one of whom is from this city. He is C. K. King. The fact that only living people are named in "Who's Who" limits the amount of information available about them.

Mrs. Thorne gave brief biographical sketches about eight men and women who had earned the right to appear in "Who's Who" by their achievements in the state of Ohio. Well-known Ohioans, whom Mrs. Thorne described, were Rodzinski, Robert Taft, Charles Allen Smart, Louis Bromfield, Eugene Goosens, John Bricker, Judge Florence Allen and Mrs. Compton, of Wooster.

At the conclusion of her paper, the members joined in an informal discussion and added interesting facts about these people.

During the regular business meeting, a voluntary contribution to the march of dimes was given.

When refreshments were served, Mrs. Henry Huston presided at the table. Mrs. R. A. Rowlands, Edgewood road, and Mrs. Howard Wenning will entertain the club at the Feb. 15 meeting.

Friends Attend Birthday Party At Moyer Home

The fourth birthday anniversary of Miss Margaret Ann Moyer was observed in a delightful manner Monday when 18 little playmates were invited to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moyer, jr., 194 Helen avenue, for an afternoon of games and contests.

The honoree received many lovely gifts from the guests.

At the close of the afternoon a luncheon was served at tables decorated in keeping with the Valentine season, and centered with a large birthday cake and lighted tapers.

Among the guests were Johnny and Sheila Miner, Tom and Karen Crotty, Sandra Lee Hout, Billy and Peggy Casey, David Kafer, Jay Weakland, Jim and Patty Moyer, Peter and Pat Creamer, Barbara and Richard Leech, Dorothy, Mary and Peggy Moyer.

WITH MRS. CRAMER.

Nineteen members of the Degree team of the Pocahontas lodge will meet Monday night at the home of Mrs. Clara Cramer, West Fifth street. Following the business meeting the group played five hundred and bunco, with Mrs. Dorothy McCullough and Mrs. Effie Keltner receiving prizes. Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey received the hostess prize. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Reichert, 364 Bartley avenue, will entertain the group on March 1.

Name Committees For Assisting In Casualty Stations

Committees were appointed to assist in the work at the casualty stations for units set up, yesterday afternoon, when the Women's auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society met at the Women's Club.

The following chairmen of committees were named: For unit one, at the John Simpson Junior high school, Mrs. R. D. Campbell; unit two, at the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, Mrs. C. H. Bell; unit three, at the Mayflower church, Mrs. C. R. Damron; and unit four, at the Sons of Herman hall, Mrs. S. C. Schiller.

The meeting yesterday was in the form of a 1:30 dessert-luncheon. The hostesses for the affair were Mrs. W. D. Abrams and Mrs. L. Nigh.

Dr. Charles Kellar, legislative chairman of the Richland County Medical society, will discuss bills before the legislature at the next meeting, which is scheduled for March 1. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. H. Bell. Mrs. C. R. Damron will be the associate hostess.

SOCIAL PLANNED.

RETURN TO GALION

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. Otis Parks and daughter, Aldine, who have been living in Denver, Colo., since last summer, have returned to Galion to make their home. Mr. Parks has taken his former position at the United States Vault company.

SALVAGE DRIVE DUE

BUCYRUS—The tin can salvage program will get underway in Bucyrus this week when a representative of the War Production board, Ohio office, meets with the local salvage chairman, J. W. Overholt to plan the local campaign.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Big Dollars, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

THE BOY FROM MAINE

CHAPTER XVIII

He sang simply, and pretty well. It was unpretentious singing, and he had introduced it deprecatingly, saying that this was just to fill in and that somebody else would be back in a minute. He had no real voice, and Rosalie said to herself of this fact, "Thank goodness." Male singers bored her, and the better they were, the more so. This was just a pleasant kind of talking of a song; it was the sort of thing you did informally while you were riding in a car, or while somebody was playing a living-room piano. The selection was The Girl Friend, and Hobey sang it straight for the first time; for his second chorus he substituted a faintly ribald, cheerful parody that Rosalie didn't know was his own. Sometimes he announced this fact—as Ruby always wished him to—but not tonight.

Rosalie almost never applauded, but now she did, spanking her hands together enthusiastically—she wanted Hobey to hear her. By glancing at them automatically she made her table follow suit, including Bailey, whose big hands could make a fine noise when they wanted to. "I have friends," Hobey said to the audience at large, looking over at them gratefully. His smiling eyes met Rosalie's; and Rosalie's lips said, "That was nice, Hobey!" From all over the room there was enough applause to warrant an encore, and she was proud of that—and she was also a little proud when Hobey didn't take the encore. Usually they seized any or no excuse.

He didn't come back to their table after the show was over, as Rosalie had expected he would. During the final chorus number he had vanished backstage, and he didn't reappear. "He's probably gone home," Bailey said, when she mentioned this; but Rosalie was sure that he had not. She said, "Let's find out. Ask the waiter to see if he's still around, Bailey. We ought to say good night to him, and I want to tell him how much I liked his singing."

Bailey registered a faint impatience at this point; he had called for the check, and he and the Hendersons were ready to leave. "Aren't you overdoing it a little?" he said. "One would think he was your long-lost brother."

"Well, he practically is," Rosalie said. "And I can't just go off without another word, or a good night, or anything. You don't mind waiting, do you?" she asked the Hendersons, who said in chorus that of course they didn't. "I'm going to ask him to come up and see us," Rosalie added to Bailey, sounding pleased with this idea.

"Oh, you are?" said Bailey. He looked quizzical again. "And have some steamed clams, I suppose! You do get the strangest whims, my sweet. What in the world do you want him to come up and see us for?"

"Well, because, I like him," Rosalie said. "I think he's nice."

She thought, "And because I'm a little bit lonely these days—by an odd coincidence. After all, my dear, you have your own friends. He might cheer me up."

She was twenty-six that autumn. She called it twenty-three, and people didn't doubt her word about it—unless, of course, they stopped to think that she and Bailey had been married seven years, and that this was her second marriage. She still looked so young that nobody had yet begun to wonder how old she was, in any case; and she need not have volunteered the little lie. Her beauty had the same arresting vividness that it had always had. Also there was about her face a quality of eagerness combined with ennui, as if she still expected things to be more amusing, gayer, more romantic than she had ever found them; or than she any longer really hoped that they would be.

It was a disillusioned generation anyway, and neither she nor Bailey had escaped the general attitude, the ever-hovering sense of bitter emptiness and anticlimax . . . You went fast, so that it shouldn't overtake you. You drank too much, and lived too hard, and cared too little about anything . . . or anybody. Even yourself, Rosalie thought sometimes. Even your two selves. Even each other.

Sometimes nowadays she wondered what was happening to their marriage—or what had happened to it—but her own replying thought usually was, Oh, nonsense. Nothing has, really. It's just that everything dies down a little, in the course of time. You couldn't expect marriages to be great love affairs forever—you couldn't and you didn't, she told herself with sad philosophy. No one had ever been so much in love as they had been. She remembered that first year better than all the years between. They had lived in a passionate dream in which only they themselves were real to each other, and everybody else was unimportant and a little vague.

For their second year in New York Rosalie chose a penthouse—there were only a few in those days. They always did the smart, new thing.

It all cost money, of course, a good deal of money—more than Bailey could afford, really—but they were both extravagant, and neither of them worried. "There's always mine, if we run out," Rosalie said to herself sometimes; although she knew without being told that Bailey would never let her spend her own money on anything except herself. It was Phil Strange's money—most of it—and that was only one reason. They seldom talked about it, because it had been Phil's. Bailey invested it for Rosalie, and they both tried hard to forget it, although Rosalie was not averse to spending the dividends on extra clothes. For the rest they lived entirely on Bailey's salary and commissions. Luckily these were large, as such things went.

There was only the tangible money to prove to them that Phil had ever really existed, or really died; and that was why Bailey hated the money, and why they so rarely discussed it. Nothing else had kept their sense of dreadful guilt and shame still burning. There were even times when the tragedy of Phil seemed almost romantic to Rosalie—it was a part of her dramatic picture of herself, that once upon a time a man had loved her more than life, and proved it . . .

But it really was too bad about the money. All that money.

It was during their second year that Bailey's personal dissatisfaction with New York life and the brokerage business began to be increasingly apparent. Rosalie had seen this coming, almost from the start, and it had alarmed and troubled her, because for herself she loved New York. But Bailey hated it; he found the office routine tedious and confining; he felt cooped up; and except for golf on Sundays, and occasional games of squash at the Yale club he had no outlet for his tremendous physical energies. He complained that he felt seedy, and that he was going stale, and that he would be an old man with a paunch in a couple of years of this.

Rosalie understood his feeling about it, and she appreciated the contrast between this sedentary life and all his previous activity; but she kept thinking that it irked him only temporarily, and that in time he would adjust to it and not mind it any more. For the present, though, it was obviously getting worse, not better. In the summer of their second year Bailey was to have three weeks' vacation, and when he elected to spend it partly on a fishing trip in Canada with several men friends, and partly at Mitchell's Island, where Rosalie's parents had reopened their summer cottage, Rosalie did not protest, although for herself she was disappointed. She had planned a far gayer vacation for them both—but never mind that now. She was really trying hard to learn not to be selfish, in those days.

So Bailey went to Canada for the first fortnight of his vacation—that was in July—and in the meantime Rosalie made one visit, a quiet one with friends on the Cape; and then she went up to Mitchell's Island to be there when Bailey got there. The interval had transformed him; he was rested and relaxed and full of his old vitality and gaiety and magnetism—and so handsome that he took her breath away all over again. He was dressed like a lumberman, and because he arrived at one of those extra-low tides that the natives called the "dreen" tide—dreen meant drain—he had landed down the beach instead of at the grounded float, and waded through the clam flats to pull the dory up on shore. He reached the cottage barefooted, carrying his shoes and socks. "Darling!" Rosalie said, laughing—loving him, "Wall Street should see you!"

He had caught a lot of fish, and had a splendid time, and he reviewed it all for Rosalie right away. Casually, as a part of the general story, he said, "Oh, and a funny thing. Did you ever hear me speak of Andy Severance? He was a classmate of mine—well, he was along on the trip, and it seems old Andy is the new headmaster of a prep school, of all things!"

He named the school and smiled.

"Um-hmm," said Rosalie lazily, wondering what the point of all this was. She didn't know Andy Severance, and it wasn't very interesting. But Bailey went right on about Andy Severance. "He suggested that I come up there and work for him as athletic coach." He looked amused, and at Rosalie's startled interrogative glance, he grinned outright. "Three thousand a year, and found," he said. "Do you think you could live on that?"

"Do you want me to?" Rosalie said. "You're not serious, are you? Or are you!"

"No, not really," he said. "Of course not. I'm all out of training, for one thing. If I had to play half of one period I'd probably drop dead—as I told Andy. It would be fun, though," he added thoughtfully. "Just for a year, or a couple of years."

Rosalie looked at him, and she thought, This is how it goes. He really means it . . . And later that afternoon, when she helped a maid unpack his things, she found a package from a sporting-goods store in Bangor at the top of his duffel bag. It contained a brand-new football, and within the next hour Bailey had blown it up with a bicycle pump, and he had rounded up several assorted boys from the neighboring cottages, and a couple of the native boys, and they were throwing passes on the lawn, and running signals.

"He's playing football," Mr. Hastings observed brightly.

"Um-hmmm." Rosalie said. "And loving it. Darling, I'm doomed . . ."

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 26: METHODS OF ACCOUNTING

A Federal income tax return may be prepared in accordance with any method of accounting regularly used by the taxpayer which correctly reflects his income and expenditures. Two main methods of keeping accounts are followed (a) the cash receipts and disbursements method, and (b) the accrual method. In the cash receipts and disbursements method all items of income actually or constructively received (whether in cash or property or services), and only those amounts actually paid out for deductible expenses, are shown. Income is "constructively" received when the amount is credited to the account of, or set apart for, the taxpayer, and may be drawn upon by him at any time. Thus, under the cash receipts and disbursements method, a bill rendered by the taxpayer would not constitute income until paid, nor would a bill rendered to the taxpayer be expense until paid. There would, however, be constructive receipt of a payment if a valid check is received during the taxable year even though the check may not have been deposited or cashed within that period.

Under the accrual method, net income is measured in a broad sense by the excess of income earned over expenses incurred. Under the accrual method, income arises when earned, even though not received, and deductible expenses arise when incurred, whether paid or not within the taxable period.

Where inventories are carried in the business, as in the case of store operations, only the accrual method in reporting purchases and sales will clearly reflect income, and the accrual method accordingly should be used. In the case of a professional occupation, such as that of a lawyer or physician, where inventories are not employed, either the cash receipts and disbursements method or the accrual method may be employed.

Business expenses must be distinguished from capital expenditures. Capital expenditures are those which result in the acquisition of something of a permanent nature and do not constitute the current cost of running a business, and, therefore, are not deductible as business expenses. While a distinction between a capital expenditure and a business expense is often difficult to draw, a general rule may be stated applicable in most cases: Capital expenditures ordinarily result in the acquisition of assets having periods of useful life in excess of one year. Where the period of useful life is one year or less, that is, where the asset is worn out and discarded within one year from its purchase, the entire cost is deductible from the income for that year.

A limitation upon the deductibility of items as business expenses is that they must be paid or incurred within the taxable year. If the taxpayer is on the cash receipts and disbursements basis, then, the expenses must be paid within the year; if he is on the accrual method, such expenses are not allowable unless incurred within the year.

Help Your Child With Homework

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

THERE ARE a few teachers still who suppose it is the parent's job to help the child learn his lessons at home and hers only to assign these lessons at school and hear him recite them. Many others think parents unfit to help and won't let pupils take their books home.

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I am writing you again in order to tell you of my daughter's arithmetic improvement after we used your 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts chart.

"She had become so emotionally upset that her feelings blocked her ability to learn. She often came home in tears ashamed of her poor work. I visited the teacher and asked that she be allowed to bring home her arithmetic book so that I could help her. The teacher requested me not to help.

"Much as I disliked to go against the teacher's wishes, we worked at home. From near failure in February she came up to satisfactory in June."

It seems to me that, instead of teachers assuming that parents are hopeless, it might be better and energies may prove a set to assume that many of them have considerable intelligence and common sense, and to try to win them to consider good ways of helping the child at home, especially to provide a calm and comfortable emotional atmosphere for them.

It does not matter much what methods the parent uses, especially in reading, so long as the child feels comfortable and hopeful and, of course, so long as he is encouraged at home to use the same particular skills he had practiced in at school.

It is because I believe many parents can profitably help their children to learn at home and gain companionship with them from doing so, that I have prepared several special bulletins—Home Helps for Poor Readers, Part I for children under eight or ten, Part II, for older children and adolescents; Home Helps for Poor Spellers; The 100 basic addition facts and the 100 basic subtraction facts. Each one of these may be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it (for each one).

Q. My 13-year-old boy bolts his meals and hurries out to play.

A. Quit talking; act. Announce to him just once he must not leave the table till the end of 20 minutes. Soon he will learn it is foolish to eat in two or three minutes and have so much time doing nothing.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Halloran drew in his breath sharply at my father's question, and there came to me the feeling that something of great importance to all of us lay in the revelation he evidently was about to make.

"This is why," he said slowly. "For the last week I've been working on the queerest sort of a job, building up a chap to look exactly like another one of whom I was given photographs in every possible sort of pose and from every angle, also his exact measurements, and elaborate descriptions of his coloring, his hair, his eyes—in fact, every detail of his appearance. And to top off everything else, I was given a marble bust of him, also a death mask."

I already had guessed what was coming, and was sure my father must have the same conjecture, but his only comment was a quiet question.

"The first man is dead, then?"

"That's what I thought until a few minutes ago," Halloran replied.

Halloran Explains.

"Why have you changed your mind?" he asked quietly.

"Because," Halloran replied gravely, "when I finally got the beard and wig off that lad in the next room, I saw that he was the man I'd been copying. The bust, death mask, photographs and descriptions I've been working from all fit him like the paper on the wall."

My father's face did not change, but I knew he was tremendously interested and excited.

"Have you told him your discovery?"

"No." Halloran replied, "but I almost spilled it before I caught myself. I was so excited. Instead, I stalled by saying I certainly had seen him somewhere, or somebody who looked just like him. He started to ask me questions, but I told him I had to get in touch with you at once—and that was no lie either—and so got out. He has to wait for a while with a soothing lotion on his face, before I do any more work on him, so I have plenty of time."

"Have you any idea who he is?" my father asked.

Halloran looked at my father shrewdly and said:

"I'd be a pretty big fool if I didn't. Nobody's told me, but I'm pretty much of a newspaper reader and I've seen those photographs I've been studying more than once.

"You see," he went on, "I thought at first the man was an actor, because those photographs showed him in so many queer costumes. There was one especially with a crown on and seated on a throne, and others in military costumes, reviewing regiments.

Recognized Georges.

"Then I remembered that I'd seen some of those photographs used to illustrate an account of a king who had been forced off his throne, and had disappeared in an uprising of the people. It was supposed that he had been killed. But it's my bet that he escaped somehow, and that the name of the lad in the next room is—"

"Don't speak it!" my father commanded, then walked to the telephone.

"Wait, please!" he barked over his shoulder, and then called a number which I recognized as that of Harry Underwood.

Halloran knew it too, I could tell by his eyes, and he stiffened with something like resentment. I realized that he guessed my father was checking on his trustworthiness, and that his pride was up in arms.

"Harry!" my father said. "Please get out Q4 B86."

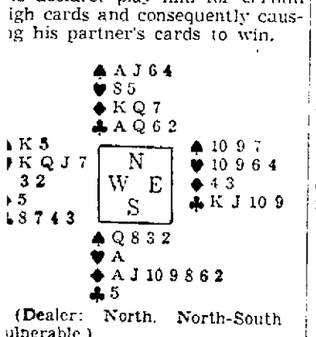
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

RESIST THAT IMPULSE

Have you met the type of person who just can't keep out of conversation? There may be one or two people present who are surcharged with information which all the others present want to hear, but our nervous friend just has to take part and use up his share of the time. Isn't that the type of person who finds it impossible to keep out of the auction on a bridge hand? Sometimes he is tempted to double a high contract without a thing in his hand, hoping thereby to make the declarer play him for certain high cards and consequently cause his partner's cards to win.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
♦	4 ♥	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Dbl

East, of course, had an explanation for everything he did on this deal. When he failed to bid hearts at the modest range of two after first hearing his partner name the suit, that was to conceal his fit from the opponents. When he hopped in later at 4-Hearts, that was because he knew from South's spade jump that North and South had a game, and he wanted his partner to be in position to sacrifice.

Oh, yes, such a player always has a most logical sounding explanation of anything he does—usually a very intellectual one. He had one also for that ultimate double. That was because he felt sure his partner could set the contract if South misplaced some of the high cards, playing East for them instead of West.

After South won the opening heart lead with the A, he saw there was only one sound way to play the hand and score more than could have been done if the correct contract of spades got made. He dropped the trumps, led toward the spade J, finessed it, dropped the K with the A, led to the Q to drop the 10, and claimed the rest for an extra trick. East's "smartness" only presented several hundred points to his opponents.

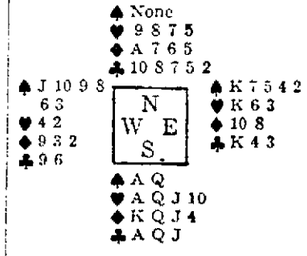
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the right way to play this deal at 6-Hearts by South after West leads the spade J?

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

CONTAGIOUS COLDS NOW SPREADING!

Fewer colds! . . . Shorter colds! 50% less sickness from colds! . . . that's the certified record of Vicks Plan in a great medically-supervised winter test among 2650 children. Right in your own home, this easy guide may do less—or it may even do more for you and your family. But with colds on a rampage, this tested plan is certainly worth trying today! Full details in your package of Vicks. Briefly here's what you do:

Put VICKS PLAN To Work Today!

OBSERVE a few simple health rules. Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Avoid crowds and people who have colds.

IF A COLD THREATENS, put a few drops of clinic-tested Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril at first sniffle or sneeze. (Use as directed in package.) This effective, specialized medication is expressly designed to aid your natural defense against colds—and if used in time, Va-tro-nol helps prevent many colds from developing. (Even when your head is all stuffed up from a mean head cold, Vicks Va-tro-nol relieves sniffly, sneezy distress, makes breathing easier.)

WHEN A COLD STRIKES, or slips by all precautions, rub clinic-tested Vicks VapoRub on back, as well as on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub penetrates to the cold-congested upper bronchial tubes with soothing medicinal vapors. It stimulates throat, chest, and back surfaces like a warming poultice. This penetrating-stimulating action works for hours to relieve miseries of colds . . . invites restful, comforting sleep!

NOTE: If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family doctor right away.

GALION PLANT GETS 'E' AWARD AT CEREMONIES

Parade at 3:30 P. M. Thursday To Precede Program at Senior High School.

GALION—Congratulatory messages from President Roosevelt, Governor Bricker, United States senators and representatives, will be read during the program when the Army-Navy "E" award for excellence in production of war materials is presented here this week to the Perfection Steel Body company.

The complete program, which is set for 4:15 p. m., next Thursday, Feb. 4, at Senior high school auditorium, is being released.

Ceremonies will begin with a parade at 3:30 p. m., from city hall to the Senior high school.

Selections by the Galion high school band, under the direction of George Rule, will precede the program.

Robert L. Moulton, representative to the Ohio state legislature, and coordinator of the Galion Civilian Defense council, will preside for the ceremony. He will open the service with the announcement of the advancing of the colors by the color guards of Scarbrough post, the American Legion.

Introduction of Mayor William Amann for the welcome address, will follow.

Lieutenant Governor Paul M. Herbert, representing the state government, and a past national commander of the American Legion, is slated as the principal speaker.

The Army-Navy "E" pennant will be presented to the company by Lieut. Col. A. F. Witte of the Cleveland Ordnance District of the war department. This will be given to Harry Cobey, president of the company, who will have an acceptance speech.

Army-Navy "E" pins for the employes of the company, will be presented by Lieut. Com. J. P. Sturges, U. S. N., to three representatives of the factory, Inez Shier of the office, Leslie Sherer and R. C. Hoover. The pins will later be distributed to the employes.

R. C. Hoover will have the speech of acceptance. Then will follow the reading of the congratulatory messages, and the introduction of honored guests.

The Galion firm is one of the first in North Central Ohio to receive the Army-Navy "E" award, and plans are to make the presentation ceremony an outstanding event.

The singing of "America" by the audience, will conclude the program.

The entire program will be broadcast over radio station WMRN, Marion, and it will be re-broadcast in the evening at 7:30 o'clock over WHKC, Columbus, it was announced today.

Officers of the company are: president, Harry Cobey; vice president, Mrs. Harry Cobey; secretary-treasurer, Herbet Cobey; superintendent, Perry A. Brick; assistant superintendent, Henry Kruger; purchasing agent, Martin Kruger; sales manager, V. L. Farnsworth. The position of treasurer was formerly held by Ralph Cobey, who is now a captain in the air corps at Wright Field, Dayton.

Feature of the February meeting of the Philatea class at First Reformed church, Monday evening, was a waffle supper. It was served by a committee composed of Mrs. Elmer Curfman, Mrs. Fred Hessenauer, Mrs. Fred Murray and Mrs. M. G. Thompson.

The devotional leader was Mrs. Bernard Mains. Contests and games were enjoyed during the remainder of the time.

Salvation Army Captains Wed At Bucyrus Citadel

SHELBY—Capt. Leota Brown of Cleveland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harl Brown of near Shelby, was united in marraige to Capt. William F. Hathorn, son of Mrs. Burton P. Hathorn, in a double ring ceremony performed in the Salvation Army citadel in Bucyrus at 8 p. m. Monday.

Lt.-Col. Claude E. Bates, field secretary of the New York Territorial headquarters of the Salvation Army, performed the service. Solos were sung by Major Paul Seiler of Cincinnati and Capt. Dorothy P. Bartlett of Cleveland.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore full dress uniform of navy blue of the Salvation Army. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Methodist church in Bucyrus for 200 guests.

The former Capt. Brown graduated from the Lykens schools, Crawford county, and later attended the Salvation Army training college in New York City. The bridegroom graduated from a Vermont high school and later attended Cornell university.

After a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Philadelphia.

TWO WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS MADE AT PARTIES IN GALION

GALION—Social news in Galion is highlighted with two wedding announcements and a party for a bride-elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Durtschi announced the marriage of their daughter, Phyllis Jane, to John Robert Eyler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eyler of Willard. The couple was married at Garret, Ind., Jan. 25, at 7:30 p. m., in the home of Rev. A. R. Lueders. The only attendant was Harold E. W. Smith of Garrett, a relative of the bridegroom.

For the present, Mr. and Mrs. Eyler are making their home with the bride's parents here.

A graduate of Galion High school with the class of 1942, the bride is now employed in the offices of the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing company. Her husband was graduated from Willard High school and works for the Erie Railroad company at Marion.

At the parsonage of the Peace Lutheran church, Friday afternoon, Rev. Philip E. Auer read the single ring ceremony to unite in marriage, Loretta June Skums and Glenn Argyle Sheets.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Skums, South Pierce street. Her husband is employed as a truck driver for Malo Brothers, here, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sheets of Washington county.

The ceremony was witnessed by the bride's mother, and sister, Beatrice Skums; and the bridegroom's parents of Washington county; and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rainer of Galion. The newlyweds are making their home with the bride's parents.

Honored guest at a party given by Jean Huy, bride-elect Patricia Pollock, was presented with a shower of personal gifts found in a duffle bag. The affair was a surprise for Miss Pollock who will be married Sunday afternoon, Feb. 14, at First Reformed church here, to Corporal Ellwood Rensch of Fort George G. Meade, Maryland.

Guests present included members of the '40 club and three others, Mrs. Ralph E. Pollock, mother of the honoree, and Miss Virginia Rensch of Galion, and Barbara West, a house guest at the Huy home. Mrs. Pollock who won the high score gift in card games played during the evening, presented it to her daughter.

DIES AGED 94

Mrs. Hoffman Had Read New Testament 61 Times.

ASHLAND—Rev. Walter Koeppiin of Peace Lutheran church will conduct funeral services Wednesday at 11 a. m. for Mrs. Catherine L. Hoffman, 94, who died Monday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Guth, 510 Sandusky street.

The rites will be conducted at the Guth residence after which the body will be sent to New Jersey for burial in the family plot at Lebanon. Services will be held at the Lebanon Reformed church before the burial rites.

Mrs. Hoffman was born at Lebanon, N. J. She has lived for several years with her daughter here. She was a member of the Reformed church in Lebanon. An ardent reader of the Bible, Mrs. Hoffman had read the Old Testament 35 times and the New Testament 61 times. She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Guth of this city and two sons, F. E. Hoffman of Palm Beach, Fla., and Paul F. Hoffman of New Jersey, N. J.

SUBMITS BILL

Mt. Gilead Man Urges Authority to Promote Apple Sales.

MT. GILEAD — Rep. Frank J. Giffin (R) of Mt. Gilead today had introduced a bill in the house of representatives at Columbus for the establishment of an Ohio State Apple authority to promote the sale of apples and educate the public in the best use of the various varieties grown in the state.

The authority, which would be composed of five practical apple growers appointed by the governor, the director of agriculture and the chief of the Bureau of Markets, would be self-sustaining through an assessment of one cent a bushel on apples sold.

The first 250 bushels sold by any grower and those used and shipped for manufacturing purposes would be tax exempt.

TELLS SCHOOL HISTORY TO GALION ROTARY

Principal Reviews Growth of Secondary Education at Dinner Meeting.

GALION—Reviewing the history of secondary education in the United States, E. R. Pickering, principal of Galion senior high school, was the speaker Monday night at the dinner-meeting of the Galion Rotary club at Hotel Talbott.

He said that the first type of secondary schools was the Latin Grammar school which emphasized discipline and memory work, and trained its pupils chiefly in piety and the classics. There were training centers, he said, for the clergy and the professions.

These schools were succeeded by the academics which offered a broader curriculum and prepared for every-day living. There were better teachers than for Latin Grammar schools, and a pleasanter environment.

Then came the public high schools, he stated. These placed emphasis on preparation for every-day living and college. The modern high school dates from 1890, he explained.

He concluded his talk by telling about the Galion high school where there are 12 full-time teachers and seven others who devote part of their time to the Junior high school and special departments. The school has two custodians, and an enrollment of 390 pupils in its three upper grades. It stresses college preparatory course, general high school education, a number of vocational training courses. The latter are paid partly by the state.

In the machine shop there are 14 juniors and 18 seniors enrolled, a vocational course for stores and retail line training in which there are 22 enrolled, and a secretarial course with 16 girls studying, in addition to the Home Economics department.

The high school has two publications, the Lantern, and the Spy; an Honor Society, Athletic association, and band and choruses. This year the High School Victory corps was organized.

Pickering also stated that there was a noted increase in enrollment in science and mathematics classes, while the class in physics has had its enrollment doubled.

HUNT POISONER

Shelby Police Continue Probe After 7 Dogs Die.

SHELBY — Shelby police today were continuing the investigation into the killing of seven dogs here over the week-end by poisoning.

Strychnine poisoning was found on mush in the yard of a Raymond avenue residence during the investigation, police revealed.

Dogs killed by the poison were owned by Rev. Father Michael McFadden, pastor of the Most Pure Heart of Mary church; John Plank, Charles Morgan, Verne Bowen, Felix Ludin, Charles Laubie and Ray Ernsberger.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Their departure for the armed forces has just about wrecked sports in Mansfield, but Mansfield sport fans have been justly proud of the long and growing list of the city's athletes in service.

Here's one list those fans will pray doesn't grow any bigger, the gold star list of athletes killed in service:

Bill Sawhill, ex-Tyger track star.

Ed Goettle, ex-Tyger grid star.

Mansfield high school football Coach Paul Snyder was one of the many who were sorry to hear of Goettle's death, reported in the Sunday News-Journal.

"Ed was was one of the strongest and most rugged boys I ever had playing football for me," Snyder declared. "He didn't know his own strength. But he was hard-working, quiet, and conscientious."

Goettle played right tackle for the Tygers the first year Snyder coached here, in 1939.

"The last time Ed was home," said Snyder, "he told me the calisthenics, with which we start every football practice session, put him right up there in the navy. He knew the whole routine, and they had him leading his group in calisthenics."

* * *

Former Tyger athletic stars of recent years will be going to the service in droves in the next few months, and some quicker than that.

Home from school over the week-end, Bill Doolittle, Ohio State freshman football quarterback, reported he is quitting school to join the marines.

Chuck Condon, Tyger halfback of 1941, who graduated from high school last Friday, leaves this month for service in the army air corps ground division.

And John (Duke) Weber, all-Ohio football guard in 1941, goes to the army with this month's call on draft board No. 2.

Ed Arlin, Tyger tackle in 1941, expects to leave the University of Georgia for the navy at the end of the present school term in March.

Arlin is enlisted in the army reserve, but it seems that R.O.T.C. reserves have their choice of service and Ed has picked the navy.

Bob Winbigler and Paul Dietzel tried to get in the army reserve at Duke, but couldn't make it because they didn't have their birth certificates with them. Which is strange. Arlin didn't have his birth certificate either, but he got in the reserves at Georgia.

Jack Shiplet, former Tyger cage star now playing at Miami university, is reported enlisted in the marine reserve, and there are undoubtedly many other former Tygers now in college who are in the reserves. They'll all be in uniform soon.

Durocher Ordered To Take Army Exam

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, goes to the City Hospital Clinic in St. Louis tonight to take a physical examination on orders of his draft board.

The outcome of the examination will determine whether Leo will be reclassified 1-A by his selective service board. He is now 3-A. He is married, his wife is self-dependent and he has no children.

"My case is now in the hands of Uncle Sam," Durocher said. "I'm ready to answer his call."

Durocher will be 37 years old in July.

He said he plans to leave tomorrow or Thursday for New York where he will confer with Dodger President Branch Rickey. Pending word from his draft board, Durocher said he would proceed with his duties as though he would remain in baseball during the coming season.

20 Bucket Teams Yet Unbeaten

McKinley and Four Others Finally Lose.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Only 20 of Ohio's 1,152 high school basketball teams remained unbeaten today, following last week's series of upsets and sensational contests which swept five class A teams and one clas B quintet out of the clean class after they had compiled long victory streaks.

The class A casualties were Steubenville (31, Martins Ferry 41); Canton McKinley (40, Canton Lehman 43); Youngstown South (37, Canton McKinley 41); Boardman (33, Sebring 39), and Western Reserve Academy (46, Akron South 48). Bluffton, only class B team to fall for the first time, skidded before Bellefontaine, 33-38.

Youngstown South had won 10 straight, Bluffton and Steubenville nine each, and Canton McKinley, Boardman and Western Reserve Academy eight each before the blow fell.

Still rolling along undefeated in class A are: North Canton, 12; Martins Ferry, 11; Defiance and Wadsworth, 10; Bexley and Greenfield, 9.

The unsullied group in class B: Plain City, 16; Middle Point, 13; champion, Webster Twp. (Wood county), Ottoville, Yellow Springs Bryan and Twinsburg, 11; Creston, 10; Dresden, New Albany, Utica, 9; Arlington and Sabina, 8; Cygnet, (Wood county) 7.

North Canton, pace-setter in class A, was the class B champion of the state in 1939, while Plain City, class B front-runner, showed its class last week by running up a 104 to 12 score against Madison rural.

Back of the undefeated contingent, some of the teams boast these won-lost records:

Class A: Barnesville and Newark 12-1; Youngstown South, Cincinnati Purcell, 10-1; Newton Falls, Canton McKinley, Dayton Wilbur Wright, 9-1; Boardman, Western Reserve Academy, Ashland, 8-1; Van Wert and Steubenville Central Catholic, 7-1; Middletown and Dover, 10-2; Steubenville, Ironton and Akron North, 9-2; Canton Lehman and Portsmouth Central Catholic, 8-2; Akron Central, 7-2; Dayton Fairview, 6-2; Canton Timken, 10-3; Warren, 9-3; Xenia Central, 8-3; Findlay, Dayton Roosevelt and Fremont Ross, 7-3, and Massillon, 6-4.

Class B: Willshire and Bergholz, 11-1; Wintersville, Waynesburg, E. Conneaut Rowe, Dalton, Canton St. John, 10-1; Bremen, Bluffton, North Lima, Fredericktown, 9-1; Lancaster St. Marys, 15-2; Yorkville and Plainville, 14-2; Mineral Ridge, 13-2; Ottawa Public, 12-2; St. Henry, 11-2; Bristol, Braceville, Orwell, Pickerington, Newark St. Francis, 10-2; Hartville, 9-2.

Probably the most satisfying victory of the week to the winners was the 20-17 conquest racked up by Akron Jennings over Tallmadge. In their first encounter this season the class B Tallmadge squad had administered a 20-8 defeat to the class A Wolverines.

Among the week's individual scoring feats were: Bob Walker of Akron East, 26 against Canton Timken; Phil McKown of Creston, 20 against West Salem; Jack McDowell of Northfield, 23 against Macedonia; Ted Trask, Findlay, 23 against Bowling Green; Ernie Plank, Bexley, 19 against Upper Arlington; Paul Bodkins of Van Wert, 21 against Wapakoneta; K. Urich, Wapakoneta, 23 against Van Wert; D. Gregory, Vinton Rural, 21 against Zaleski; Charley Heskett, Galion, 26 against Lima Central, and Dom Venetta, Warren, 23 against Cleveland West.

Gregory of Vinton Rural held the scoring lead with 292 in 16 games, but Dick Weir of Barnesville, with 284 in 13 boasted the high average. Other leaders included: 14 games, Ed Musser of Doylestown, 193; 12 games, Venetta, 171, and Jim Wells of Middletown, 152; 11 games, Heskett, 220, Hugh Cleary of Columbus Rosary, 141, Hank Vaughn of Akron Central, 204, Ed Finney of Akron West, 146; 10 games, Dale Haverstock, Canton McKinley, 136, Trask, 139, Bill Miller, Dayton Roosevelt, 99; nine games, Dick Mulvaine, Marion Harding, 157, and Harry Anderson, Akron Kenmore, 152; seven games, Jim Stoops, Van Wert.

Nats Sell Daffy Dean For $12,500

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Clark Griffith of the Washington baseball club today was in the market for a pitcher after selling Paul "Daffy" Dean to the St. Louis Browns for a price estimated at $12,500.

Dean, claimed by Washington in the minor league draft last December, was originally traded to the Browns for Pitcher Elden Auker but President Donald Barnes of the St. Louis club yesterday informed Griff that Auker has applied for voluntary retirement to continue his work in a defense plant.

With the trade deal thus definitely off Griff then sold Dean to the Browns and began searching for another hurler.

WALKER COPS NOD

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Finishing strong, Buddy Walker, Columbus, O., negro, won a close decision over Tony Musto, 200-pound Chicago slugger, last night.

Improper Backswing Shown

(AP Features)

Using a four-step delivery, the bowler takes the third step on her right foot, at which time the ball has reached the peak of its backswing and it is ready to come forward as the last step is taken on the left foot. The important item here is to take things easy, remembering a slow, working ball will get more pins than a fast ball with no "stuff" on it. In the picture above, the bowler's hand should be on top of the ball instead of beneath it. In other words, the back of the hand should be up. The bowler above places an unnecessary strain on her hand and arm by twisting the ball into this position and then untwisting it as she delivers.

Tomorrow: The Delivery.

Trosky Invited To Train With Tribe

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Hal Trosky, the Cleveland Indians' former first baseman, has been invited to join the tribe in spring training at Purdue university next month so that he may determine for himself whether he wishes to make a "comeback."

Blond Hal, who retired to his Norway, Ia., farm late in the 1941 season with migraine headaches and remained out of baseball last season, told Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh that he "might be ready for a comeback this spring."

"I talked with Trosky not so long ago," Peckinpaugh said, "and he seemed to be in better mental spirits than ever before."

Trosky presently is on the voluntary retired list. The ball club will not offer him a contract, Peck said. If he feels he's ready for another chance in baseball he may apply for reinstatement at American league headquarters.

Peckinpaugh indicated that Trosky might be converted to an outfielder if he is restored to the active list.

Whiz Kids Roll Over Wildcats

Illinois Team Looks Better Than Last Year.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Big Ten basketball critics conceded today that the current University of Illinois basketball team is superior to the combination that won the conference championship a season ago.

* * *

That conclusion was reached after Illinois' decisive 68 to 51 triumph over Northwestern last night at Champaign and the "Persuader" who steeled the argument that has raged most of the season was Art Mathisen, the six-foot-five Illini center.

For the first time this season Andy Phillip, the brilliant Illinois forward, failed to go "field goal crazy," but Mathisen stepped into the breach with his greatest conference scoring exhibition in two seasons to give Coach Doug Mills' proteges their fifth straight league victory. The triumph left Illinois just a half game behind pace-setting Indiana.

Phillip's shartshooting, while at as accurate as usual, brought his season's total to 107 points and regained for him the Big Ten scoring lead, which had been held by Iowa's Tom Chapman.

Bud Hasse, lanky Northwestern guard, put up a splendid exhibition of defensive play to shackle Phillip in the first half and limit him to five points. In the second half, Phillip broke loose to score 10 more points however.

* * *

Mathisen's spree last night boosted his season's total to 53 points.

The 22 field goals he's accumulated in five contests surpasses the aggregate made all last season.

Otto Graham, Northwestern's great forward who finished second in the individual scoring race last season, took the game's scoring honors with 19 points.

Tyger Cagers Take To Road

Play Ashland, Fremont Away From Home Court.

Mansfield high school's improving bucketball Tygers take to the road this week for two games with district tournament teams, going to Ashland tonight and to Fremont Friday.

While the Tygers scored a fairly easy 36-25 victory over Ashland in their first meeting with the A's here, Ashland blamed the defeat on the fan shaped baskets in the Tyger gym, and believes it will be a different story tonight with the old type hoops.

Ashland is still rolling along undefeated at the top of the North Central Ohio league.

Mansfield will ge going after a new all-time record in the Ashland cage series tonight, their sixth straight victory over the A's. Only twice have the Tygers won five straight games in the series, and the second time was on Jan. 12 of this year.

The Tygers have now won four straight games, and eight out of the last ten played. If they should get by the Ashland assignment tonight, they meet another tough club Friday at Fremont.

The Little Giants have won seven games out of 10 this season, including five out of six in the Buckeye league. They defeated Fostoria last Friday night 36 to 29, but had to come from behind in the third period.

Dick Myers, center, who was rumored headed for the army two weeks ago, now appears set to finish out the basketball season with the Giants. He led the scoring last Friday with 18 points scored on nine buckets.

Coach Vern Hoffman announced he will take a squad of 14 players to Ashland tonight, and ten to Fremont.

COOPER BATTERYMEN SIGN CARD CONTRACTS

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Mort and Walker Cooper, brother battery of the St. Louis Cardinals, were the first players in the 1943 salary fold for the National leaguers today.

They agreed to terms for the coming season at increases over their 1942 wages.

President Sam Breadon said "both boys seem to be quite satisfied." He declined to reveal the amount of their raises.

Lucas Protests Defeat

Claims Official Erred In Bellville Game.

LUCAS high school has registered a formal protest with County Superintendent of Schools Boyd Robinson over the 20-19 defeat handed the Cubs in a Richland county high school basketball league game last Friday night by Bellville.

The letter of protest from Coach Lawrence L. Deckrosh of Lucas, follows:

My dear Mr. Robinson:

I wish to enter a protest of the 1 point basketball victory of Bellville over Lucas last night Jan. 29, 1943. The protest is on the grounds that Referee Marshall errored according to Rule 10 Sec. 8 (penalty) which reads:

Two free throws if committed on a player who is in the act of throwing for goal, provided the field goal is missed. If the field goal is made it counts, in which case only one free throw shall be awarded except that if such player is roughly handled or is deliberately fouled or is fouled in the rear by an opponent who does not have a reasonable chance to reach the ball without personal contact, two free throws shall be awarded whether the goal is made or missed.

In the closing minutes of the game Barger was fouled as he shot. The basket was made, but Marshall did not allow it. Barger made his first foul shot but missed his second. If this had been according to the Rules Barger would have scored 3 points instead of 1, and the final score would have been Lucas 21, Bellville 20, instead of Bellville 20, Lucas 19.

I wish to have you and your committee consider this and if you wish to see me about it I will be only too glad to come in. Any of the Lucas fans will verify that it was a legal basket and should be counted.

Sincerely.
Laurence L. Deckrosh.
Coach.

Ordinarily protests involving the judgment of a game official are not upheld, and in this case, if the official says the foul was committed before the shot was taken, making it a dead ball and eliminating the basket, it would be entirely a matter of his judgment.

However, Coach Deckrosh, in fairness to the Lucas fans and school, appears to have done the proper thing in making the protest, based on an interpretation of rules.

By Mr. Vaughn:

Regulating public sales which are occasioned by the intention to discontinue business, and providing for license and penalties for violation thereof.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1: That it shall be unlawful for any person, partnership, association, corporation, or agent thereof, to advertise, announce, conduct or hold out by any means or device, that any sale of goods, wares, or merchandise is caused or occasioned by the intention of discontinuing business, such as fire sales, bankruptcy sales, going out of business sales, assignment sales, etc., in the city of Mansfield, Ohio, unless a license is first obtained from the Mayor of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, to conduct such sale.

Section 2: That upon application for such license the applicant shall make a full disclosure under oath of the following information: The true name of the owner of the goods, wares or merchandise to be offered for sale and the name of the operator of the sale if a person other than the true owner; a full and complete inventory of the quantity, kind and character of the articles to be offered for sale, which shall be prepared in the following manner: First, an itemized listing of all articles and the quantities thereof remaining unsold which have been in stock on the premises where such sale is to be conducted for a period of fifteen days or longer prior to the application for the license; second, an itemized listing of all articles and the quantities thereof received in stock on said premises within the fifteen days immediately preceding the application for the license; third, an itemized listing of all articles and the quantities thereof which have been ordered to be placed in stock at said premises during the pendency of the sale; and the reason for the urgent and expeditious disposal thereof.

Section 3: That no license under this ordinance shall, during the continuance of such sale, add any goods, wares or merchandise to the stock described and inventoried in his original application for such license, and no goods, wares or merchandise shall be sold at or during such sale, except as described and inventoried in such original application

Section 4: That any person conducting or being responsible for any sale, as set forth in section 1 hereof, without first having obtained such license, or any person who shall violate section 3 hereof, or any person making or being responsible for any misrepresentation in connection with the goods, wares or merchandise so offered for sale or sold, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) and not more than two hundred dollars ($200.00), or to imprisonment for a term of not exceeding thirty days, or to both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 5. That any license so granted as aforesaid shall be effective for a period of not more than sixty days but may be renewed for a period of not more than thirty days, provided that proof satisfactory to said Mayor is first submitted to him showing that the stock itemized in the original application has not been disposed of, nor shall any other such license be granted to any person on same premises selling same kind of merchandise during the period of one year next succeeding the expiration of a previous license, or renewal of license, granted as aforesaid. The Mayor shall receive from the applicant, for such license upon the granting thereof, a license fee which shall be fifteen dollars ($15.00), for extension fee shall be ten dollars ($10.00).

Section 6: That this ordinance be and hereby is declared an emergency measure for the immediate preservation of public safety because of the prevalence of going out of business sales in the City of Mansfield at this time of year, and that this ordinance shall be in full force from and after its passage.

Passed Jan. 12, 1943.

STOCK MARKET STILL TAKING UPWARD ROAD

Business Loans Decline In Nation But Increase In New York City.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market generally remained on the upgrade in today's early proceedings.

At a moderately active opening fractional advances were posted for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, Goodrich, Chrysler and Woolworth.

Among items scanned for market trend clues were:

Federal Reserve member banks in 101 cities, for the week ended Jan. 27, reported a drop in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of $16,000,000 despite an increase in New York City of $9,000,000.

The treasury announced sales of war bonds last month established a record with a total of $1,240,444,000.

THEATERS

Romantic Drama.

The actor who gave the screen two unforgetable portrayals in the title role of both "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and "The Pied Piper," brings another memorable character to the screen in "Life Begins At Eight-Thirty," opening Wednesday at the Ohio. Starring Monty Woolley the picture deals with a great actor who forsakes fame for the right to laugh and watch the world go by. Ida Lupino has the role of his daughter while a newcomer, Cornel Wilde, is cast opposite Miss Lupino in the romantic lead. Sara Allgood of "How Green Was My Valley," and a star cast including Melville Cooper and J. Edward Bromberg appear in the picture.

Aerial Thriller.

The daring workings of the Dutch underground are depicted in "One Of Our Aircraft Is Missing," the exciting Alexander Korda production, opening Wednesday at the Madison. The story concerns six RAF fliers who are forced to bail out over Holland and are aided to return to England by a band of simple democratic folk grimly helping to fight the terrorism inflicted by the Nazi regime. A play by play description of how the RAF plans and executes its current air bombing raids over targets in Germany is included in the production. The English cast includes Eric Portman, George Withers and Emrys Jones. Basil Rathbone brings Sherlock Holmes to the screen in "Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon," the co-feature.

Homefront Episode.

How a wealthy widow in wartime Washington refuses to have anything to do with the war effort until she sees her own son and daughter marching off to service motivates the action of "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," showing at the Ritz. Fay Bainter has the leading role and the romantic interest is provided by Richard Nye and Jean Rogers. Spring Byington and Frances Rafferty are also in the cast. A sparkling daughter of the ice and snow captures an American doughboy in "Iceland," the co-feature, starring Sonja Henie and John Payne.

Musical Films.

"Juke Box Jenny," with three name bands headed by Charlie Barnett's aggregation shares the bill at the Park. Ken Murray and Harriett Hilliard are among the featured entertainers. The Weaver Brothers and Elviry are the leading lights of the other production, "Mountain Rhythm," which gives the former vaudeville stars an opportunity to present their homespun philosophy and mountain music.

ASKS DEDUCTION TAX BY JULY 1

Treasury Urges Pay-as-You-Go Plan, Opposes Forgiving Last Year's Levy.

have to be levied on persons of small income "since it is at this level that the income tax is capable."

Collection at the source, Paul declared, "can readily be handled by employers," and he proposed that the deductions be made on a weekly or monthly basis. As to the taxation on income for persons who do not derive all their revenue from salary, Paul suggested that the committee consider one of two methods: Either taxation on a current basis against an estimate of the year's income, or by a system of quarterly statements of income.

Addressing himself directly to the question of skipping a year of taxes, Paul said:

"The question is whether the transition to current payment should be made by forgiving a year's liability, by paying two years' taxes in one, or by postponing or deferring one year's taxes over several years. In the light of the revenue needs of the government, and the equitable distribution of the tax burden, complete forgiveness seems very undesirable.

"Complete doubling up would undoubtedly be too harsh for some taxpayers. Accordingly, deferment of payment of taxes for the transition year to the extent necessary to relieve such hardships appears to be desirable.

"This is not to say that some discount, or even a certain amount of forgiveness, may not be found to be desirable for the same reason."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Bulletin Board.

Eddie Lowe's dates with Ann Savage, the picture pretty, ended abruptly when Lady Furness dashed into town. He and her ladyship are now the lovey-dovest couple on the Manhattan scene.

Fannie Brice is so happy. She and John Conte are together again. . . . Ilona Massey and Robert Alton are the most interesting offstage presence of the new "Ziegfeld Follies."

Kilgallen

Alice Dawn, the singer who was engaged to Sidney Rosoff, startled the Broadway set by eloping with Pvt. Sam Gruber, former co-owner of a Detroit chop house.

Mickey Rooney tells intimates he definitely enlist in the army as soon as he completes his next picture, despite studio attempts to dissuade him.

Two more famous swing bandleaders are due to be involved in the marijuana ring scandals, which the FBI is investigating. . . . Wynn Murray, the thrush is the age-door-jennying a soldier stationed at the Grand Central Palace induction center.

George Brent is ailing. Chief—nerves and overwork . . . Arleen Whelan and Virginia Field, two of the principal cuties in "Doughgirls," are denying the feud rumors. . . . Hollywood hears that Brian Aherne and Joan Fontaine may adopt a boy and girl to make their marriage happier.

Tony DeMarco is recuperating from flu in Saratoga. . . . The owner of the Boston Cocoanut Grove offered to take the entire responsibility for the fire if everyone else indicted went free.

Paul Small, the agent-producer, thinks that this time Estelle Taylor will say "yes" . . . Jane Withers and Buddy Pepper are twitterpated.

The Leonard Vannersons (she was Martha Tilton, the singer) are lullabying a 7-lb girl.

Another local night club is under surveillance by authorities as a follow-up to the 52nd St. vice expose—which, incidentally, got all the strippers off Swing street in double quick time.

Jerri Kruger, the canary is in a Brooklyn hospital with pneumonia. . . . Ben Marden's daughter, Gertrude (the attorney), trekked to the altar with Lew Bacon of N. Y. in Miami.

Xavier Cugat was not the lad who got a black eye in that Washington, D. C. night club. . . . It was a case of mistaken identity.

Every big star in Hollywood is moving heaven and earth to get a role in the Clark Gable picture, he being the most popular figure in the industry today.

Irene Delroy, the former musical comedy attraction, is ill. . . . The Red Skeltons, who can't make up their minds, are now at the point (as we go to press) where they don't think they want a divorce after all.

Linda Darnell, whose romances confuse everyone, has accepted a ring from Pev Marley. . . . The Marino Bianchis of the Colony are cradling a baby girl.

Beverly Paterno, of the ringside tables, is now anonymously portraying famous women in the news in a weekly radio broadcast.

The lad that Iledy Lamarr doesn't talk about (but he rates better than most) is a California real estate man.

Business in the theaters and cafes is so sensational even the experts are bewildered—and 70 per cent of the customers, according to an informal survey, are out-of-towners.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—There will always be war pictures—and war pictures. Good ones and bad ones. Magnificent things like Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" and paltry, noisy little things in which conventional movie plots have the gall to weave their timeworn threads through the greatest world tragedy of all times.

Coons

I was on a movie set today where they seemed to know that this war, and its heroes, are drama enough. The plot of "Bataan Patrol" can be told in few words. Thirteen of MacArthur's expendables are assigned to fight a delaying action against the Japs in a jungle pass. They are expected to hold the invaders for hours. They hold out for three days to the last man. That is all.

Tay Garnett is the director. He thinks he has something here.

"You take a story like this," he says "and any plotting you try to put into it is just movie. What they did, and how they did it, is story enough. That—and character. How the men react to situations, and to each other, in their tight spot. We've got Lloyd Nolan as a fighter with a grudge against one of the other men, Bob Taylor. That's a sort of side-menace. He might be capable of sticking a knife in Bob, but of course he never does. We're sticking to the real menace, the Japs. It'll be dramatic, all right. We don't show the Japs at all until the end, when they've swept over our men's position. The Japs drop bombs from the sky, but we don't show the planes—only our men's reactions. And we're depending a great deal on mood, on lighting and photography, to intensify the menace and suspense."

One of the things most difficult about war pictures, in Garnett's opinion, is to avoid heroics while portraying heroism. "Those boys out there aren't doing any flagwaving," he says. "They're too busy fighting."

The Bataan set for the film covers a whole stage and has the "roof" of the jungle over it. In a Bob Walker his not-covered hellhole crouches young actor Lee Bobbing down over his eyes as his gun spits fire at the unseen, jungle-hidden enemy. His sand-bagged shelter is beside a still, green pond. Strange bright tropical flowers and vines have survived the battle, but over in a little clearing is a row of new graves—the expendables already gone and buried by the survivors.

After we've visited Bataan even in the comfort of a movie house, and have seen re-created even a small part of its valor and sacrifice, that second cup of coffee or that extra gallon of gas doesn't seem so important after all.

EXPECT BYRNES TO BE CALLED IN RUBBER ROW

House Committeemen Told Director Divided Up Scarce Materials.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Prospects arose in Washington today that Economic Stabilization Director James Byrnes would be called before congress to explain how he divided up scarce war materials between Rubber Czar William Jeffers and the armed forces.

That Byrnes gave the life-and-death decision which ruled on how much materials the synthetic rubber program would get was revealed at a joint hearing by the house military and naval afairs committees.

The disclosure was made both by Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson and Undersecretary of the Navy James Forrestal. Patterson, declaring that the armed forces were dissatisfied over a decision of WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, said that they had appealed directly to President Roosevelt. It was Byrnes, according to both Patterson and Forrestal, who made the final decision.

The committee called an executive meeting for late in the day to decide whether Byrnes would be summoned. A list of other witnesses also may be drawn up.

The committee brought into the open the raging conflict between Jeffers and the army and navy over the amount of materials that should be allotted to the rubber program. Ultimately, it may decide the amount of tires that will be available to civilian motorists.

The army, Patterson revealed, recommended a far more drastic that now being enforced by the that now been genforced by the government. Patterson disclosed that on Dec. 8 he had written Jeffers suggesting a nationwide ban on pleasure and Sunday driving. He also urged that the number of pleasure cars on the road be cut from 27,000,000 to 20,000,000, with the government purchasing or requisitioning 7,000,000 of them.

Jeffers, who was called before the committee after he charged that army and navy expediters and "loafers" were interfering with the synthetic rubber program, warned that American civilian economy and war effort would collapse if the synthetic rubber program failed.

START PAYING

Real Estate Tax Payments on First Day Hit $27,132.

Collections of Richland county real estate tax totaled $27,132.82 yesterday, the first day for payments, County Treasurer Charles Payne said today.

Today also bid fair to become another banner day for collections with the morning mail bringing in several thousand dollars and office attaches being kept busy throughout the morning receiving payments. Large payments are expected by mail this year owing to the gasoline and tire situation.

In line with the conservation measure County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe announced today that personal tax forms, usually not available until Feb. 15 could be obtained anytime hereafter by mail and personal requests in his office. Wolfe said he expected rural residents would be accommodated by making one trip to the courthouse for both real estate payments and obtaining personal tax lists. Personal tax forms are due to be returned by April 1.

HIT PASTORS' WATERY SERMONS

Hough Says Uncritical Optimism Served as "Bread of Life."

COLUMBUS (INS)—Ohio's pastors today were called upon to unloose more severe criticism on the destructive forces prevalent in the world.

In an address before the Ohio pastors convention, Dr. Lynn H. Hough denounced "the watery content of most sermons being preached today in America."

"There are men in the pulpit today," he asserted, "to whom the word 'God' is mere rhetoric instead of a 'splendid reality.' I go to church a lot and I hear sermons whose content is equal parts of tenderness, gentleness and unwitting optimism all served up as the bread of life."

SENTENCED TO DIE

CANTON (AP)—Domanic Cocco, 32, of Bellaire, is under sentence of death in Ohio's electric chair for the May 16, 1941, slaying of Robert (Ruby) Ettiger during a $13,500 holdup. Common Pleas Judge George N. Graham said he set the May execution date to allow time for a review by the court of appeals.

CLOSING NEAR IN FLYNN CASE

Prosecution Presents Final Arguments to Jury Today After 'Lock' Testimony.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—The prosecution begins today its final argument to convince a superior court jury of nine women and three men it should convict movie star Errol Flynn of three charges of statutory rape.

Both sides rested yesterday after another day of testimony about the filing on the door latch of the "blue bedroom" in a Bel Air home, where 17-year-old Betty Hansen charges the actor violated her after a dinner party last Sept. 27.

Defense witness Lloyd Eads, a blacksmith, testified the filing could have been done "any time—two weeks or two years ago, or longer."

On Friday a police chemist testified that, two days previously, he discovered the shank of the latch had been filed, making the lock inoperative.

Defense witnesses had testified it had been impossible to bolt the door for a long time because the latch was defective. But earlier Miss Hansen had told the jury that when she and Flynn were in the room he walked toward the door and she heard a click; she wasn't sure whether he locked it. Another prosecution witness had told of being unable to open the door at the time of the alleged intimacy.

Prosecution and defense attorneys predicted the case would go to the jury Thursday night or Friday morning.

Theater Closed, Manager Held In Race Disturbance

XENIA (INS)—The Xenia theater, a unit of the Chakeres Theaters Inc., was closed today and its manager, James T. Hibbert, under arrest and facing prosecution for racial discrimination.

Sheriff Walton Spath closed the theater and arrested Hibbert on orders of Prosecuting Attorney Marcus Shoup. The prosecution claimed Calvin Thomas, Xenia negro patron, was denied a ticket at the theater boxoffice.

The order came following a disturbance Saturday night at the theater, resulting in street fighting and a number of arrests. The violence flared after two or three weeks of incidents, during which negro citizens claimed they were refused admission tickets.

Six persons, including five white men and a negro who were arrested Saturday, were fined $25 and costs each in municipal court, one for disorderly conduct and intoxication, the others for disorderliness.

Coincidentally, the featured movie being shown when the theater was closed is called "stand by for action."

PROBE SHORTAGE

Officials Continue Investigation In Embezzlement Case.

YOUNGSTOWN (UP)—Suburban Campbell officials investigated further a reported shortage of $11,170 in water department funds today after a state examiner ruled that John B. Hassay, former service director was liable under his bond for actions of a subordinate.

Nathaniel Patton, former water department collector was charged with embezzlement of the funds and held at Mahoning county jail. His bond covers $3,000 of the shortage. Hassay's bond also is for $3,000.

RICHLAND DRAFT BOARDS FIND FEW TO CLASS AS DELINQUENTS

Richland county has less than a half dozen selective service registrants who have been officially reported as "delinquents" to date, although names of at least that many more will be put on the list unless reports are received from them in the next two days, draft board officials announced today.

Board one, which serves Mansfield outside of Madison township, is the first of the county's three draft boards to prepare a list of registrants who have been cited for delinquency. Boards two and three will prepare such lists soon after they have completed necessary forms and checked all known means in their attempt to locate the men.

Draft officials are of the opinion that, in most cases, delinquency is caused by neglect rather than intent. They stress repeatedly that all changes of address and status of registrants of all ages be reported immediately to the board with which they are registered.

Men who have been expecting induction papers or orders for physical examination and who have not yet received them are also urged to contact their boards to ascertain facts in their case and check addresses. There are several who have not yet returned occupational questionnaires, the board officials stated, and these may also have to be classed as "delinquents" unless such forms are returned immediately, the boards said.

HUNT MOLESTER

Police Renew Search After Man Menaces Girl, 12.

Mansfield's molester who pursued women in nocturnal forays last August probably has resumed operations, in the opinion of police, who were told last night that a man attempted to lure a 12-year old girl into his company.

A South Willis avenue resident told Patrolmen John Gilbert and Glen Adams that when his daughter was returning home from a South Adams street store she was accosted by a man at Newlon place and Adams street. Indecent gestures were made by the molester when he asked the little girl to go along with him, she told her father.

Police, accompanied by the girl and her father, searched the neighborhood but found no person answering the description of the man. Descriptions fitted that of the man who annoyed women on dark streets several months ago.

INFANT DIES

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Letang To Be Buried Wednesday.

Joseph Letang, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Letang, 39 Raleigh avenue, died Monday evening at Mansfield General hospital shortly after birth.

Surviving in addition to his parents are a brother, Stephan, jr., grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Letang, and Mr. and Mrs. John Stranski, all of Mansfield.

The body was taken to the Geiger funeral home. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 1 p. m. in St. Peter's church by Msgr. R. C. Goebel, and burial will be in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

DRIVER DRAWS SUSPENDED FINE

Must Pay Damages to Other Car In Collision.

R. M. Morris, 142 Park avenue east, was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler today on the charge of illegal operation of an auto as the result of a collision at Park avenue east and Foster street last night.

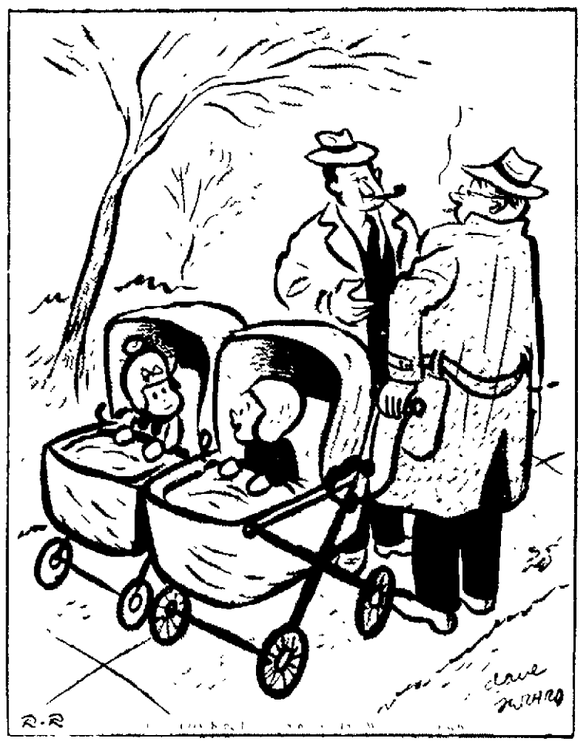
The fine was suspended on condition Morris pay for damages to the car of James C. Huffman, North Tonawanda, N. Y. Huffman said that after the Morris car had scraped his at a traffic light, it again crashed his vehicle attempting to pass at the next light.

Edward Gladish, 564 North Mulberry street, told police that a hit-skip autoist damaged his car while it was parked at Park avenue west and Mulberry street.

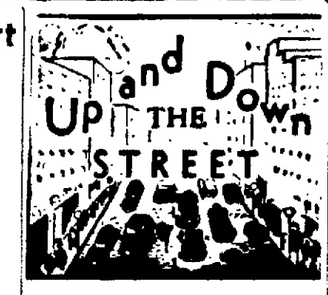
EX-SHERIFF DIES

WOOSTER—(U.P.)—Funeral services were held today for Robert A. Brown, 86, justice of the peace at Apple Creek since 1930. Brown was Wayne county sheriff from 1903 until 1907.

Laff-a-Day



"Oh, I think the tires have another twenty miles in them, but I don't think the old man has!"



Traffic Patrolman Robert Robnolte today applied for a leave of absence from March 1 to July 1 to attend the Northwestern university traffic institute. Last summer Robnolte was selected as one of eight policement in the United States for a four-months schooling in traffic control and accident prevention. The course includes methods of handling traffic in blackouts and air raids as well as routine affairs. The scholarship totals $600 from the Kemper foundation and the fellowship will be aided by a local insurance firm interested in accident prevention. Robnolte's leave request, filed with Mayor W. J. Locke, had the endorsement of Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals.

Tales have been going around Mansfield that three local men had a good cry in Indiana last week. The truth of the matter is that L. Paul Snyder, chief messenger, Frank L. Culp, senior messenger, and Floyd Dent, Boy Scout executive, were victims of tear gas while attending the Civilian Protection school at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind. They went into a tear gas chamber, sniffed the fumes and came out as they expected—in tears and plenty of them.

The same ruling that applies to mailing parcels to army post-offices overseas went into effect today for similar packages addressed to men in the navy, coast-guard and marines. Only one package may be sent each week by, or on behalf of, the same person, and to the same addressee, although at present no written request is required from the man in these branches of service. Men in army service must have their request approved by their battalion commander. Packages may not weigh in excess of five pounds or be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined.

County Treasurer Charles Payne gets around. He was in most villages of Richland county yesterday to buy stamps and post mail. It has been his policy to give each of the postoffices of the county the business that pertains to their district. Yesterday he bought stamps to mail real estate tax statements from the villages. An annual savings of about $500 is accomplished in this way, he said.

ELECTION SET

Tuberculosis Association To Organize Thursday.

Election of officers will feature the annual meeting of the Richland county Tuberculosis association at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the City Hall office of Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner.

Reports of the Chritmas Seal sale will be made by Mrs. Margaret Adams, executive secretary. Any person who contributed $1 or more in the seal sale will be welcome at the meeting and privileged to vote.

Major Francis J. Heringhaus, on duty with the Army medical corps, served as president of the organization until he entered the armed forces.

ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Shelby Man Denies New Charge In Juvenile Court.

The case of George Risic, 52, Shelby, was continued until Saturday by Judge Stuart H. Cramer in juvenile court yesterday after he entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a nine-year-old girl.

Released earlier in the day on a writ of habeas corpus granted in common pleas court concerning his confinement on a more serious charge involving the same offense, Risic was immediately rearrested on the juvenile court warrant. He had been bound over from Shelby city court to the common pleas court and his bond set at $5,000. In default of bond, Risic has been held in jail since Jan. 12.

URGES 'LABOR RIGHTS' FOR U.S. SOLDIERS

Declares Men Returning From War Will Not Accept Planned Economy.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker said today that this nation had spent billions to destroy self-reliance, initiative, imagination and individuality—"trying to plan the lives of 130,000,000 people by a superior few"—and now was spending its war billions to recreate those same qualities.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Advertising club of Los Angeles, he said men returning from this war "do not want and will not accept regimentation of their lives or planned economy.

"And it is time now that our congress should provide legislation, so, first, upon his release or discharge, any member of our armed forces can be employed by any employer without having to join any organized labor unions," he continued.

"Second, upon his employment, he shall have equal voting rights with any other employe in any union, and any employe and management plan of their employer.

"Third, his seniority in relation to other employes of draft age should rate as of the day he enlisted or was inducted into his country's service.

"And, further, if there is any question about the capabilities or the sincerity of our war workers, bring back groups of 20 or 30 of these men from these hell-holes (the front lines) at $50 per month, place them in the factories in uniform, side by side with the rest of us, and you will soon find out whether you are doing your maximum or not.

"Oh, men and women of America, if you could only understand what our boys—your boys and mine—are doing in the hell-holes throughout the Pacific and burning sands of Africa, that your way of live may be preserved, and the character that has made this nation great may be carried on, you would not worry about eleght hours a day, overtime, or double time for Saturdays and holidays."

Hear Navy Officer Explain New Naval Aviation Program

Twenty-one officials of 15 high schools in the Mansfield area met in the office of County Superintendent Boyd Robinson at 4 p. m. yesterday to hear Lieut. John Crawford, of Detroit Selection Board, discuss the new naval aviation cadet program for 17-year-old pupils.

Enlistment is contingent upon meeting high mental and physical standards. Applicants must be in the upper half of their graduation classes and recommended by a faculty committee. Enlistment is not open now to men over 17 years of age. Those chosen are enlisted as apprentice seamen and are permitted to finish school before beginning intensive training.

Richland county school men decided in a session following Lieut. Crawford's talk that they would use the same type of diplomas this June that were used last year. They discussed matters relative to the basketball tournament this month and submission of detailed maps showing school bus routes in the various districts.

Present at the meeting were: R. M. Paxton and S. F. Jamison, of Ashland; Ayden A. Remy, Crestline; D. C. Baer and E. E. Gearhart, Bucyrus; Olan LaRue, Madison; R. C. Rehard, Butler; E. J. Joseph, Shiloh; E. L. Bailey, Plymouth; L. C. Stingel, Ontario; Byron H. Carmean, Lexington; J. E. McCullough, Lucas; Glen W. Guthrie, Union; D. D. Rummel, Bellville; R. F. McMullen, Loudonville; O. H. Fariar and D. L. Musselman Mt. Gilead; Cecil H. Ratcliff, Shauck, and John H. Eisaman, H. J. SirLouis and Boyd Robinson, Mansfield.

WON'T CHANGE

East Liverpool To Retain War Time Despite Ohio's Action.

EAST LIVERPOOL—(AP)—East Liverpool will keep Eastern War Time, regardless of the Ohio legislature's action on a proposal to turn back clocks one hour.

The city council last night adopted a motion to retain the time now in effect, pointing out that a change to Eastern Standard would put the city an hour behind neighboring Pennsylvania and West Virginia's cities where 90 per cent of East Liverpool's population is employed.

s Cyprus On rn From Turkey

ON —(UP)— Prime Min- Winston Churchill visited on his return trip from the ministry of informaıounced today.

Churchill, in a speech at Cyprus, promised that the Allies would gain strength until they forced the Axis to unconditional surrender.

"The United Nations will march forward from strength to strength," he said, "until unconditional surrender is extorted from those who have laid the world in havoc and in ruins."

Churchill Reports New Turk Friendship

CAIRO — (AP) — While smoke from his cigar twisted up before him, a buoyant and smiling Churchill broke the news last night of the British-Turkish conferences in Adana and said the world war-broken friendship of the two nations is filled "with the fullest strength."

The British prime minister, like President Roosevelt, enjoys telling the news first himself. When he left Cairo for Adana, only a few knew about it.

On the return there was no formal announcement immediately. Instead, Churchill himself gave the first word when he met correspondents informally to talk of the significance of the conversations.

Primarily, he said, he hoped no more would be read into the agreements and identity of views achieved at Adana than outlined in the communique, suggested that audacious speculation sometimes left people in embarrassing positions.

He was a different Churchill than the tired man who faced correspondents in the same medallioned ballroom of the British embassy during the closing days of last August.

Then he looked harassed and worn by the gloomy fact that the British Eighth army had suffered another defeat and Field Marshal Rommel was threatening the Nile.

But last night he looked confident and grimly pleased.

Washington Market Offers Horse Steaks—Cheap.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The management of a Washington market today planned to try out the experiment of selling horse meat in this crowded wartime capital.

Some 1,900 pounds of choice dobbin cuts will be placed on sale Thursday. The meat will be sliced up in cuts similar to beef and will sell for approximately half the price of beef. An ordinary roast is expected to range from 17 to 19 cents a pound.

Managers of the market said that further supplies will depend on the public's reaction to the first shipment.

unless doubts about the phrasing were removed immediately.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board declared in a letter received last night by House Speaker William M. McCulloch that abolition of the present eastern war time would be a "serious detriment to war production."

Nelson, however, added:

"I shall not oppose action by the interstate commerce commission transferring Ohio from the eastern time zone to the central time zone (which is an hour slower), provided the commission, after investigation, finds that Ohio is in fact logically a part of the central time zone and is therefore so specially situated that it is unduly discriminated against or suffers special disadvantage because of the action taken in 1936 moving Ohio from the central to eastern zone."

The chairman also reiterated his statement that Ohio power companies, under the hour-taster war time would save 100,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year. His estimates by companies included: Marion-Reserve Power, 1,200,00, and Hamilton Municipal system, 900,000.

BACK ON JOBS AT AKRON PLANT

Strikers Return to Synthetic Rubber Factory.

AKRON — (U.P.) — Full production at the B. F. Goodrich company synthetic rubber plant was resumed today after termination of a "wildcat" strike by members of the United Rubber Workers union (CIO).

The men returned to work on orders of local union president George Bass. Efforts will be made to negotiate a wage controversy, which precipitated the walkout, while the men are at work, Bass said.

Production was halted yesterday when the workers left the plant in protest over a new piece work rate schedule. The plant was shut down 30 hours, but the men began returning last night after the ultimatum from Bass.

FDR Calls Casablanca Talks A 'Win The War' Conference

this hemisphere lying closest to Africa.

The president dwelt at some length on the situation in French North Africa, especially the political problems. He said he thought things were going along pretty well. The problem in North Africa, he said, is essentially a military one.

Mr. Roosevelt said that anyone who tried to stir up talk of disputes between Generals Charles De Gaulle and Henri Giraud, French leaders, was helping the cause of the enemy.

He volunteered the information that every effort was being made to supply modern arms for a French army under Giraud.

The chief executive remarked that Giraud said he could put 250,000 men with some military training in the field, but apparently had raised his sights since the Casablanca conference. Since then, Giraud has spoken of an army of 300,000.

After giving a word of praise to the press and radio for living up faithfully to the request of the Office of Censorship that secrecy be maintained about the movements of his party, the president noted that he never was out of touch with Washington, even while traveling by air. He placed the length of his trip at 16,965 miles.

The whole journey, Mr. Roosevelt said, was essentially a military mission. At Casablanca, he said, plans were drafted for winning the war — drafted as far ahead as possible — and in this case they covered the calendar year 1943.

An acceleration of the United Nations' counter-offensive against Axis submarines was forecast in congressional circles today following a White House conference at which the seriousness of this problem was reported to have been impressed upon leading legislators.

President Roosevelt was said to have discussed the submarine menace in some detail when congressional chieftians gathered with him late yesterday for a resume of world conditions as he surveyed them at the Casablanca conference with Prime Minister Churchill.

successes of Jan. 28 in a communique late yesterday, also told of raids by Marauder medium bombers Jan. 29-30 on Japanese bases at Munda on New Georgia island and on Kolombangara island. The Japanese retaliated by bombing U. S. positions on Guadalcanal. One enemy plane was shot down.

The Sydney Morning Herald said editorially today that "it is a pity" that Secretary of Navy Knox was unable to include Australia in his tour of the Pacific.

"Secretary Knox could have been informed first hand of the needs and the hopes of the southwest Pacific," the newspaper said.

"The buoyant tone of the colonel's statement does not suggest that official misgivings which have been lately expressed in Australia about the growth of Japanese power in the southern Pacific were shared in the area in which he toured."

U.S. Gives Rabaul 'Worst Blasting'

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — (AP) — A large force of United States B-17 heavy bombers gave Japanese airdromes in the Rabaul area of New Guinea the worst blasting they've yet undergone.

The estimate of damage ranged from 20 to 50 enemy planes knocked out of commission. All the Fortresses returned safely.

Captain Kenneth McCullar of Batesville, Miss., a flight leader, said jubilantly, "this was the best night raid or even the best raid we've ever had at Rabaul."

Lieut. Waldo Schauwaker of Bowling Green, O., the last pilot over the target, said he counted 20 large fires with a couple of dozen planes silhouetted in the light on the ground.

Lakunai was Rabaul's busiest airdrome, it was the principal target, but others were hit as well.

McCullar's crew included Staff Sergt. Orville Coulter, Zanesville, O., as crew chief.

SET TO BAN DEPENDENCY DEFERMENTS

WMC Lists 70 Occupations as Non-Deferable After April 1 In New Regulation.

this year to meet the labor requirements of war industry and to put 10,000,000 men in uniform.

McNutt estimated that 3,200,000 workers for war industries could be obtained by transfering them from non-essential jobs. Today's order is the first "mandatory" step. Employes in the 70 non-essential groups, who are of military draft age, may obtain 3-B classifications only if they transfer to one of 35 activities previously listed by the WMC as "essential" to the war effort.

"Dependency is an important factor," McNutt said, "but to justify its acceptance as a ground for deferment, a worker must also be making a contribution on the home front."

The WMC's list of essential activities includes plane and ship production, farming, coal mining, transportation services, lumbering, and communication services. "Necessary men" within these activities are classified 2-A or 2-B, while other employes are rated as 3-B.

McNutt has made no secret of the fact that efforts of regional manpower officials to get workers voluntarily to shift from nonessential occupations into positions where they can aid the war effort have not been successful.

"We thought that this action would help them," he commented.

He was asked whether the move was designed to get men for the army or for war industries.

"I doubt if you can say that there is any one primary reason for the move," he observed. "There are two or more reasons behind this order."

"Can men over 38 years of age, and thus not subject to military duty, remain in a non-essential job?" he was asked

"Yes, but that 38-year top limit might be raised by an executive order at any time," he said.

Among other occupations listed as non-essential were:

Beauty operators, bell boys, butlers, dancing teachers, dish washers, elevator operators, elevator starters, fortune tellers and clairvoyants, gardners, messengers, porters, soda dispensers, ushers, valets and waiters.

Married men with dependents who hold these jobs have until April 1 to obtain "essential" employment or lose their 3-A deferment status. The U. S. employment service will aid such persons to find war jobs.

After April 1, a 30-day period for transfer will be granted registrants who have registered with the USES for the purpose of finding a war job and present evidence of such uses registration to their local boards.

All occupations in the following "activities" will be considered nondeferrable:

Mafufacturing—Curtains, cutware, glass novelties, jewelry, nonindustrial ornamental gold and silver leaf and silverware, greeting cards and signs and advertising displays.

Wholesale and retail trade—Antiques, beer, wines and liquors; custom tailors, candy, florists, tobacco.

Service — Automobile rentals, dancing, music and theatrical schools; gambling, interior decorating, parking lots, photographic studios, turkish baths and social-escort services.

"This first list is small, unquestionable," McNutt said. "No one can question that any of these occupations shouldn't be on the list. If any such job-holder is wise, he'll get into one of the 35 essential activities."

Men subject to military call who remain in non-essential occupations will be inducted first, even though they are married and have children, he said. They will be called ahead of married men without children in other jobs.

"The order is a very clear indication that they are no longer in the 3-A pool," he said.

Only reasons that may be accepted for being engaged in a nondeferrable activity after April 1 are: Sickness, physical disqualifications, reasonable vacation, or some "compelling circumstance" that would not permit a change without "undue hardship."

COURTHOUSE AT TOLEDO 'RINGED'

Pickets Protest Dismissal (Or Layoff) Of Eight Workers.

TOLEDO —(AP)— Pickets encircled the Lucas county courthouse today as members of the State, County and Municipal Employes' Union, AFL, called a strike in protest to the recent dismissal of eight employes in the county sanitary engineers' department.

Headquarters of the road maintenance department and sanitary engineers' department were closed by the walkout, Robert J. Moran, business agent of the union said.

Louis H. Sanzenbacher, president of the Lucas county commissioners, said the men had not been dismissed but laid off because of lack of work. Moran said the men, all Democrats, were dismissed for political reasons and in violation of civil service regulations.

Mayor And 2 Councilmen In Long Session Over Pay Hikes

and leave the Republican city employes out in the cold. That, city hall observers pointed out, would have been a pretty good political move if it could be done, in view of the fact that Miller was the minority member of the committee. Both Porch and Bush are Republicans and they would hardly agree to such a set-up if it had been proposed.

The proposed pay increase ordinance gives the mayor an increase of $500 annually—but under the law it cannot take effect during the current term of the incumbent.

The auditor's salary is boosted from $2,700 to $3,000 and the solicitor's pay upped $100 to $2,500. Pay of the president of council will be $700 and that of members $250.

Increases of varying amounts are provided for practically all city employes.

First consideration on the measure is scheduled for tonight's council meeting.

Joe Stalin . . . get it?

Q. It shrinks.

A. What do you expect for free? Bob Hope?

Q. All we want to know from you is how long winter is going to last? Did you or didn't you see your shadow?

A. Boys I'll be truthful with you. I had to come out . . . every Feb. 2 I've got to come out, it gets too stuffy in there. And I knew you'd ask about me seeing my shadow. And I knew the government wouldn't want me to tell.

Q. So?

FOOD FOR FIGHTERS ...AND ON TIME!
Keeping our fighting men fighting . . . that's the first job of America's Railroads these days! It takes tanks and guns and oil, but, above all, food — good, substantial, fightin' food.
And every minute of every day the food trains roll toward the fighting fronts — potatoes from Maine, fruit from Florida, beef from Texas, grain from the prairie states, canned goods from California, dairy products from the Great Lakes Region.
To our armed forces at home . . . to MacArthur's fighters . . . to the boys in Iceland and North Africa . . . to the sailors who man our fighting ships. They're rolling toward Britain, toward Russia and China to help our fighting allies. Yes, thousands upon thousands of carloads of food are moving over America's Railroads every week.
All this in addition to keeping America's home front eating—and eating well.
No, Adolf . . . no, Tojo . . . you can't lick us in the food war, either. You can't even come close! And, 60,000 B&O workers, backing up fighting sons and brothers, are going to see that the food gets through to them... plenty, and on time!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD OHIO TUESDAY FEBRUARY 2 1943.

So live that the record of what you do will look all right in the "Twenty Years Ago" department in 1963.

Our forefathers didn't get along without vitamins—it is merely that they got them in food instead of in capsules.

Grocers are having trouble these days in making themselves believe the John Wanamaker slogan, "The customer is always right."

Federal Sales Tax Unpleasant

ARGUMENT that congress should not enact a federal sales tax "because a majority of people are against it" would be quite logical in peace-time but carries little weight when there's a war on—with a hundred billion dollars to be raised somehow.

Objection to a federal sales tax "because it would reduce buying power," which was common before the war, turns into a strong argument FOR such a tax—as reduction in buying power is exactly the thing now being sought by the government as an anti-inflation measure.

The Brookings Institution has just issued a new report in which it repeats former recommendation for a federal tax on retail sales, suggesting a 10 per cent tax as a means of raising an additional five billion dollars in taxes.

Income taxes will be higher this year, yet Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau asserts an additional $16,000,000,000 will have to be assessed to meet that part of the $100,000,000,000 budget which should be met from taxes.

Arguments of the Brookings Institution, as previously advanced, are given greater force because of present more urgent needs. They are:

1. The sales tax would be a burden widely distributed over all the people.
2. It would be "much more effective than most taxes of similar yield in stabilizing the price situation because it would be chiefly out of money that owners would otherwise seek to spend for current consumption."
3. "The very character of the sales tax which makes it objectionable in peace time, especially during a depression, becomes an advantage under the conditions which now exist."

The idea of paying a 10 per cent federal sales tax—or even one of 5 per cent—is not pleasant. Nor is contemplation of this year's income tax requirements pleasant. In fact there's nothing particularly pleasant about the whole war situation. But its obligations must be met—by civilians as well as by members of the armed forces—and tax-paying is among civilian obligations.

Flynn Episode Neatly Ended

WITHDRAWAL of the nomination of Edward J. Flynn as United States minister to Australia put an end to an awkward situation, although Mrs. Roosevelt's comment to the effect that Mr. Flynn was the victim of "an anti-administration campaign" seems to show lack of her customary perspicacity.

Whatever may have been the attitude of individual senators who either supported or opposed the Flynn nomination, feeling over the country, in the matter of this selection, was neither pro- nor anti-administration—it was merely that an apparently very large majority of the American people thought the New York political boss was not the type of person they would choose to have represent them in an important diplomatic post.

Now, for instance, if President Roosevelt should decide to nominate Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, for the Australian post, it would quickly appear that objection to his former nomination was not anti-administration, but "anti-Flynn."

Nazi Idea of Agreements

WHEN a peace offer is eventually made by Hitler there will probably be some persons who will suggest that Germany has now "learned her lesson" and that a negotiated peace is possible.

Such dreamers overlook the difference between Nazi and American mentality. The difference is made clear by Douglas Miller, for many years commercial attache to the American embassy at Berlin, who wrote "You Can't Do Business With Hitler."

Miller has a revealing story about the Nazi treatment of the press. It seems that Goebbels was pained by "insults offered to the fuehrer" in American newspapers and broadcasting. "To show his good will he proposed to the American embassy that they select some Nazi journalist or radio broadcaster whom they disliked. As a friendly gesture Dr. Goebbels promised that he would arrest the offending Nazi within 24 hours and give him any sort of punishment suggested. 'Now,' said he, 'why can't we have the same sort of friendly co-operation on the part of the American government?'" What can be done with people like that?

Negroes Show Health Gains

NEGRO HEALTH is improving, but still has a long way to go. These are conclusions of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, which has just made a report on its 15 years of aid to public health work for Negroes. The death rate is now 14 per thousand. In 1924 it was 17.6. While this is an encouraging gain, it still leaves the Negro rate 32 per cent above that of the United States as a whole.

The gain is chiefly due to the increase in the number of health aids. In 15 years the number of Negro hospitals has risen from hardly any to 110. The number of Negro public health nurses in the South has risen from 29 to 311.

The lag behind the figures for the country's white population is of course a matter of concern for everyone. Disease is no respecter of races. If this country wishes to improve the quality of its public health, it will have to give more attention to its weak points.

Measuring the Pedestal

THE SORT of people who are referred to as "stuffed shirts" are not new—although that particular designation may be of fairly recent vintage. It was Seneca, the wise old Roman philosopher, who said:

"Many a man who has been raised to a loftier height by riches and honors is not really great. He seems so only because you are measuring the pedestal along with the man."

The Boston opera season has been called off on account of the ban on pleasure driving—that being one of the things that folks seem unwilling to walk a mile for.

Judged by the arguments now being presented, it was all a mistake for the bakers to start slicing bread in the first place.

THE SUPREME AWARD

Pre-Paid Installment Buying Plan

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

EVER buy anything on the instalment plan? If so, you know how it works.

You make a small down payment on whatever you are buying. Then you get the goods. After that you go on paying at stated intervals and in stated amounts until the whole bill is settled or death comes to your relief.

It is not in the same classification with a credit in, say, a piece of real estate. There is something legitimate about that, though perhaps only as a matter of habit. Anyway, if your deal was in real estate, you feel that you have purchased an "equity" rather than that you have run into debt. It's the same thing, but the term "equity" sounds more respectable. If you default on an "equity" instalment, you're foreclosed, and some very consequential people get caught in financial jams and "go broke" on a big enough scale to amount, almost, to favorable advertising, or they couldn't pop so ostentatiously.

A chap who is shy on his current remittance for a bit of home furniture or a flivver, or some such merchandise that he is in hock for, does not rate as a life-sized bankrupt. He simply is dispossessed.

That chap is not even a life-sized failure.

All the same, small caliber instalment buying is being conscripted for wartime purposes.

It is being "put into reverse," according to Economist Rolf Nugent of the Russell Sage foundation, who evolved the scheme, as a present associate of the Office of Price Administration, Leon Henderson's former outfit.

"Reverse?"

This is the way it works.

You are to pick out what you will want after the war, and begin paying for it, but you will not get the stuff you are buying for some time. You will pay indefinitely, month after month, at the rate of the originally agreed-on price, until you hit the total.

Still you will not receive your purchased object while the war lasts.

Instead, you will be urged to do some more instalment buying until peace is restored.

* * *

ECONOMIST NUGENT aims to take a lot of current funds out of circulation, as an inflation preventive. By this method, he calculates that it can be done on a wholesale basis. Six billions is the figure he reckons on.

But AFTER the war?

At that juncture there will be an estimated six billion in orders accumulated. Filling them will keep labor busy indefinitely, it is argued. That is true, but the labor already will have been paid for. And what about the capacity of capital, paid in advance, to meet its post-war payrolls?

There will be an enormous pre-paid-for demand—but will capital have the resources to meet the accumulation?

If capital does not have it, it must be provided by the government.

That is obvious.

The whole thing is a completely new gamble.

What we will get for our investment is a matter of speculation.

It is a new line of economics.

How well it will or will not work will be demonstrated in post-war days.

The treasury department is monkeying with the notion, anyway.

How it will pan out, heaven alone now knows.

Economist Nugent believes his program is fool-proof, but, inasmuch as it has not been tested, the accuracy of his opinion remains to be proved.

Listen World!

Hi, Neighbor!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN I broke my shoulder last spring and lay for so many weeks in bed, I used to look forward to one special hour. It was the hour when my long-time friend and doctor would come racing up the stairs shouting "Hi, Neighbor!"

My doctor's across the seas now, bossing grimmer jobs than broken shoulders. But I hope he's still remembering and using that welcome cry, "Hi, Neighbor!" For I doubt if even he, wise as he is can quite realize what that greeting means to the fellow who has been shut apart with his pain and discouragement.

Physical pain is always a tiresome thing. But if you have any spunk you can manage to take it. It's the other thing that gets you down—the sense of loneliness and uselessness, the feeling that you don't count. There may be flowers in your quiet room, sunlight on the floor, gift books on the table. But for you there is no life.

Far off you hear the children laughing at their play. A puppy barks. A street car rattles round the curve. But you have lost your place within the scheme of things. You're sick.

And then two words come laughing up the stair—"Hi, Neighbor!"

And once again you know that you belong!

You're not just a poor battered thing upon a bed. You're—YOU. You're part of the great, living, human crowd. You have a place to fill . . . a job to do . . . a heart to share with all the weary and the sad. Two words have wrought that lovely miracle.

"HI, NEIGHBOR!"

I wonder if my doctor ever knew the healing those words brought. He was the leading surgeon in our town. But he did more than set our shins and ribs. He set our lives in place. And I hope he's reading this somewhere.

"HI, NEIGHBOR!" Sometimes I wonder if, perhaps, those two short words hold all the reason why we're here, just that we may learn to say "Hi, Neighbor!" to the other chap. The work we do, the fame we struggle for, the dollars we pile up—they seem so futile when the years are done. The only thing that counts and warms us to the last is that we've learned to love. Not merely learned to love our blood kin and our friends but learned to shout—"Hi, Neighbor!" to the world.

Learned to feel, deep, the sadness and bewilderment, the hunger and discouragement in every face we pass . . . learned to know, truly, that we are all our "brother's keeper" . . . learned that nothing separates our questioning souls but our own selfishness, stupidity and greed.

"HI, NEIGHBOR!"

If ever a phrase was made to answer the need of a war torn world, and heal our own wounds, it is that. If ever a phrase healed hate and despair and opened our hearts to a new and lovelier world, it is that.

HI, NEIGHBOR!"

Say it to the next wrung out stranger you meet. Say it to the befuddled kid who's next on the assembly line. Say it to the youngster in camp who waited vainly for news from home. Say it to the tired housewife who's standing in line for her ration of groceries. Say it—with your "heart tucked in beside it" to everyone!

IT'S ONE MAGIC SLOGAN WHICH WILL WIN A LASTING PEACE.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, I suspect Eddie Rickenbacker has a ghost writer or at least a helper. This passage from his story in life doesn't sound right.

In the breast pocket of my suit I have carried for many years a little leather case containing a crucifix and three St. Christopher medals. The crucifix was given to me in 1917. Whenever I flew on the western front I always had that case in my flying suit. I had it replaced half a dozen times. It was with me again on the night I left Atlanta, and it was with me [illegible] on the Pacific. I am not a Catholic and, aside from the sentiment connected with such things, I was certainly under no illusions as to what they could do for me. Yet I found myself believing, as I always will when everything else is going to pieces, that my fate was somehow involved with them."

Well, I just don't think Eddie's faith was as wobbly as that, "under no illusions as to what they could do for me." He didn't carry the crucifix and medals through a hazardous expanse of a quarter of a century without a positive, deep faith.

* * *

And I'll bet dollars to doughnuts that his belief wasn't limited to a time "when everything else is going to pieces." Some other hand than Eddie's wrote that passage if you ask me. Anyhow I hope so.

Intensified Submarine Campaign Seen as Desperate Hitler Move

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

ADOLF HITLER has fallen back on the only weapon which gives him any hope at all of avoiding total defeat—the submarine.

Hitler's armies are crumbling fast in Russia, and while they are prepared to put up a powerful fight in North Africa, it probably can amount to no more than a delaying action.

The Luftwaffe has proved unequal to the demands put upon it by the eastern, western Europe and African fronts. It is deteriorating steadily, while the combined American, British and Russian air forces are as steadily growing stronger. Allied planes have attained superiority on all three fronts.

In desperation, Hitler intends to concentrate on smashing Allied shipping, and supply lines, remembering that in 1917 the submarine blockade almost starved England out.

The submarine is a powerful defensive as well as offensive weapon for Hitler's purposes. Allied supply lines are many and long. They extend across the Atlantic to the British isles, through the Arctic to Russia, into the Mediterranean for the African campaign, and around the Cape of Good Hope to the middle east, Russia, India and China.

THE Allied expeditionary forces must be kept supplied or they will be unable to function. When the time comes for a mass invasion of Europe, the Allied supply problem will be terrific and Hitler may be able to make the invasion extremely hazardous unless the U-boat menace is overcome.

Authoritative British sources warn against extremes of optimism or depression over mounting merchant shipping losses, but it is admitted both in London and Washington that the situation gives cause for concern.

In appointing Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz to be commander of the German navy, Hitler has indicated the importance he attaches to the submarine campaign and the ruthlessness with which he intends to wage it. Doenitz, a submarine expert, replaces Admiral Erich Rader, who long has been close to Hitler.

Doenitz is known as a merciless killer. He declared he would put the entire German navy into the underseas campaign, presumably including personnel.

Peanut Valuable as War Food, Tasty Goober Has Many Uses

TOSSING a peanut to a monkey may have been all right in peacetime, but as the nation's wartime need for high-protein foods and edible oils becomes more acute, "feeding the animals" is likely to yield priority to home larders. Observance of National Peanut week recalls that peanuts became popular in the United States during the Civil war, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. Union soldiers found peanut vines growing in the dooryards of the South. They reported the nuts tasty and nourishing.

The peanut contains elements essential to life—protein, carbohydrates, fats, calcium, and vitamin B1. It has more protein than beef steak. Half of a small peanut holds all the extra calories needed for the energy demands of an hour of brain work.

These nuts, covering acres of land from Florida to California and as far north as Washington, D. C., are also one of the richest and best sources of edible oil. To replace our war-clipped foreign supply of oils, farmers raised their plantings from slightly under two million acres in 1941 to almost four million acres in 1942. Most of the gain in yield will be crushed into oil.

THE PEANUT now reaches into 300 commercial products. Fire-fighting foams are extracted from the shells. Synthetic wool, like some of the finest Scotch woolens, is a recent contribution. It is the raw material for soups and bread flours, toothpastes and soap, and glycerine for high explosives. Even gasoline and synthetic rubber have been made from peanuts.

Candies and pastries normally require up to 50 per cent of the nation's peanut crops. About a fourth winds up in peanut butter, a food first manufactured about fifty years ago in St. Louis. Salted peanuts account for about 12 per cent, although they did not appear on the market until about 1887. Corner stands, circuses, and parks rank next. Drugs and medical products take about 5 per cent.

Brazil is credited as the peanut's birthplace. Peanuts were known as far back as 950 B. C., and have been found in the prehistoric graves of Peru. American Indians were the first to cultivate peanuts for food.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of thousands of lads are asking: What is going to happen to my education?

Thousands of college and university faculties and regents are asking: What is going to happen to higher education?

Behind the scenes, the army and navy, school officials and the Office of Education are working to bring some kind of order out of what might well become chaos in upper-bracket education.

SOME things are becoming clear. Higher learning, though it may be crippled, is not going to be allowed to die. Serious minded young men, studiously inclined and especially if they are disposed to specialize in any but the socalled liberal arts, will be allowed to complete their educations. Students who have physical deficiencies that will keep them out of the armed forces, have as great a patriotic responsibility—perhaps greater than their pals who are doing the fighting. Their duty is to prepare themselves for winning the peace, a victory certainly of no less importance than winning the war.

As for those young men in their late 'teens and early twenties who are on their way toward degrees or working on them, the give them every possible opportunity to make good.

Although all the details aren't worked out yet, some rules and regulations are clarifying the situation. First, any enlisted man (whether he has had college work or not) under 22 years of age, may apply to his commanding officer for college training. If he has the stuff, he will be assigned to some college for probably a maximum of 2½ years or that portion of it which it takes to get his degree.

He may make this application during or at the completion of his basic military training. Most 'teen-age and slightly older young men now in the ROTC, Army Enlisted Reserve, or Naval Enlisted Reserve may be called into service to undergo their basic training, but it isn't apparent yet that this is to be an inflexible rule.

Medical, dental and veterinary students in the AER are to be called at completion of the spring semester but after basic training will be returned to complete their studies. The same will apply to many premedical students, but not all.

UNDER most circumstances students assigned by the Army will have no choice as to what colleges they attend. Assignments will be made on a basis of availability, courses offered, attendance conditions, the extent of co-operation offered by faculties, etc. Students will be under military supervision and will be uniformed and paid ($50 a month or more and maintenance).

Successful completion of courses will not mean that the graduates become officers. Some will be selected for Officers' Candidate Schools; some will be non-commissioned technicians; some may be assigned immediately to civilian work.

Farming Is Skilled Labor.

Tentative plans for meeting the farm labor demand call for enlistment of more than 3,000,000 volunteers subject to call in planting and harvesting emergencies. Bulk of this untrained labor supply would be found in towns and cities.

One important thing seems to have been overlooked, however. Farming is skilled labor, a fact not generally appreciated by anyone but farmers, themselves. It calls for aptitudes and training approaching those required for skilled industrial labor.

Obviously, it calls for a certain amout of physical fitness, too. A bleached-out urbanite trying to do a man's work on a farm in the harvest season would add more trouble than he would subtract.—Canton Repository.

Two Peach Trees

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW two peach trees grow in a friend's back yard, and my mind keeps returning to them as to a parable.

The first was straight and thick of trunk with a bushy top and dark green heavy foliage—but when I saw it it lay uprooted by a sudden storm.

"Funny thing," remarked my friend. "I've been so proud of that tree, because it grew so fast and looked so healthy. Now I'll have to lop off the top and reset it back by the hen yard . . . d'ye know, I think that tree had things too good! I put too much manure and too many earthworms in the soil when I set it there in the richest part of the garden. I pampered it too much. It very seldom got any wind—this freakish storm came from the opposite direction to the prevailing air currents. It's a pure case of 'big head,' with too little foundation, don't you think?" I nodded. We understand each other.

THEN he showed me the other tree, set into a bank along an old stone wall.

That's something different. It will bear a full crop for the first time this year, and I hope you'll come to see them. It's the rarest flavor and color of any juicy peach I've ever tasted. And big!"

"Where did you get it?"

"A seedling came up in that barnyard across the road. Nobody noticed it the first year, but the second spring I saw an old bell sheep nipping off central shoot, and I thought it might be worth saving. I was building fence that day, and I put a protection of scrap wire around, pounded in a stake so that the stock wouldn't touch it . . . and forgot it. That year, it had one bloom and a peach set on. It was the earliest bearer I'd ever seen. The next year I moved it over here, and began to watch how it grew. I've pruned it twice now, and it has borne fruit twice—only just a few specimens. But it's an individual—a sport—a new variety of peach, and I believe it'll be worth money to me, for propagation."

"I hope it will," I told him.

"But if it isn't salable," he added, "it's mine, and look how nice it stands along that stone wall!" I nodded, smiling into his suddenly earnest eyes.

We understand each other.
